Dulles Says U. S. To Move Swiftly To Meet French Aid Appeal

Wilson Wants "Aggressive" Training Plan

By John Seali

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson yesterday prodded France to adopt a "more aggressive" training program to help win the war against Communist forces in Indochina.

Highlighting American interest over the Indochina problem, Secretary of State Dulles also spoke out on the subject in a separate interview with newsmen.

Dulles said the United States will move swiftly in meeting French requests for military equipment in the Indochina theater.

Wilson said the United States would "like to have more Indochinese trained on a more intensive basis."

Loyal Indochinese native troops, now locked in the biggest battle of the seven-year-old war, are generally trained by French officers.

Wilson said the possibility of sending American technicians to help the French in their training program is under discussion. These would be in addition to the 200 U. S. Air Force technicians and 100 civilian transport pilots already helping the French keep American aircraft in operation against the Reds.

This assistance is part of a military, economic and technical aid program totalling $1,200,000,000 this fiscal year.

Wilson said he still expects to see the French win the war in the Far East, and he commented:

"They deserve a lot of credit for the gallant fight they are putting up."

The defense chief said the whole question of a stepped-up training program is under discussion with Gen. Paul Ely, French chief of staff, who is now visiting Washington.

He said Ely is "receptive" to the American view "that the hope of finally winning in Indochina will rest largely on the native people."

"The French," Wilson said, "share our desire to get on with the war and get it over with."

Dulles commented on the possibility of greater U. S. aid to Indochina shortly before meeting with Gen. Ely and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, to review Indochina military developments.

Japanese H-Bomb Injuries Exaggerated

Washington (AP) — The Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee said yesterday Sen. Pastore (D-RI) had informed it that reports of radiation injuries to Japanese fishermen in the recent Pacific nuclear weapons test were "considerably exaggerated."

Pastore, a member of the committee who witnessed the tests at the Atomic Energy Commission's Pacific proving ground, filed a report with the committee. In a digest of that report, the committee said:

"The original reports of the incident... were considerably exaggerated and made the injuries suffered by the fishermen appear far more serious than the facts warranted."

"Sen. Pastore emphasized that it is now generally accepted by medical observers that there will be no lasting effects on the health of the Japanese fishermen or the Marshall Islanders and weather observers who were exposed to radiation from the March 1 test."

Seelba Forces Postponement

Rome (AP) — Premier Mario Seelba's government last night forced postponement until July 1 of a debate demanded by the Communists in the Chamber of Deputies on the politically-hot Wilma Montesi scandal.

The government beat down, 268 to 207, the Communist demand for an immediate parliamentary airing and investigation of the political aspects of the case.

CIO Opposes Bill

New York (AP) — The Executive Board of the CIO went on record yesterday against pending legislation under which the government would screen labor unions for possible Communist domination.

Unprecedented FBI Alert Asked Police To Keep Watch Against Smuggling A-Weapons

Washington (AP) — An unprecedented FBI notice to all police to be on the watch against smuggling of atomic weapons into the United States gave concrete clues yesterday as to what a suitcase sized A-bomb might look like.

A 30-inch steel pipe five to 12 inches thick and closed at both ends might contain such a weapon. Or it could be a sphere of high explosive with a core of fissionable material.

The Justice Department said FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover sent the notice to police departments all over the country last January, along with a description of possible atomic weapon types so they could be recognized.

Responsible officials said its issuance was only precautionary, and was not prompted by any special development.

They said that although the circular was not prepared for public consumption, it did not give away any atomic secrets and was not classified as secret.

The White House said the action was approved by the National Security Council, of which Eisenhower is chairman.

Some persons have expressed fear that such small-size weapons might be set off by enemy agents in key factories or production centers in advance of large-scale aerial atomic attacks if war were imminent. The U. S. Customs Service already is under orders to be on the lookout for such devices in the baggage of incoming travelers.

The announcement came in the midst of these other atomic developments:

One—The White House said President Eisenhower will delay a report on this country's hydrogen bomb potential until Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission returns from the Pacific testing grounds.

Two—The Civil Defense Administration said a nationwide civil defense exercise has been scheduled June 14-15 with mock atomic attacks planned on 42 selected critical target areas.

Hoover said no one can say what form a smuggled A-weapon might take, but he described two possible types in his circular to police departments.

A specially-prepared steel pipe with a breech block at each end could be assembled, he said, with two balls of explosive uranium or plutonium and a charge of some other explosive to drive them together.

Another kind could be a ball of high explosive with uranium or plutonium at its core.

Hoover said the weight of suspected packages could be significant. Both uranium and plutonium, the circular noted, are half again as heavy as lead and 50 pounds of such materials would be only about as big as a softball.

Israel Walks Out On U. N.'s Commission On Jordan Peace

Jerusalem (AP) — Israel walked out on the U. N.'s Israel-Jordan Armistice Commission yesterday after the American chairman refused to support an Israeli motion to condemn Jordan for a desert attack that killed 11 Israeli bus passengers last Wednesday.

After the Israelis withdrew, Dr. Youssef Haikal, senior Jordan delegate, said in the Jordan section of Jerusalem that Israel's action threatened collapse of the whole armistice framework. He said he hoped the Israelis would change their mind and keep the armistice machinery working. The commission met in no-man's land between Jordan and Israel.

Another shooting incident along the uneasy truce line between Israel and Jordan was reported yesterday. In the Jordan section, a Jordan military spokesman said an Israeli soldier was wounded in an exchange of fire at noon in the Qatana village part of the Jerusalem district. The spokesman said Israelis fired across the armistice line on farmers working on their lands, and the Jordan security forces returned the fire.

The American chairman of the armistice commission, U. S. Navy Cmdr. Elmo Hutchison, said he believed there was a lack of conclusive evidence that the persons carrying out the attack on the bus came from Jordan. He said it was possible that persons from somewhere else were involved.

His abstention left the voting tied, and it was then that the Israelis walked out.

They huddle in caves which sink as much as seven levels down under the 5-mile length of two.

They sprawl just as they were when death caught them after Marines sealed up their incredible honeycomb defenses in the last days of the sanguinary struggle.

They were waiting when the Marines came back this week, reconquering the island in their biggest postwar maneuvers.

They were no more than skeletons now, mummified skin stretched across the skulls. Yet they looked almost alive in their imperial uniforms.

Many of them had been found by engineers who for three days have been clearing the island of dangerous shells and explosives, the debris of the battle for Iwo.

Erosion or earthquakes had exposed their tombs. Most of the caves were so laden with ancient ammunition—which might explode if moved—that they were sealed again with explosives.

"There may be 10,000 bodies here," said a Marine engineer.

"We all know there were 20,000 Japanese here and a handful got off. It stands to reason the rest are still down in the caves."

Walter To Attend Conference

Washington — Rep. Francis E. Walter will meet here today with the Northeastern Development Committee to discuss the unemployment situation in the coal regions area of Pennsylvania.

Reps. Carrigan, Bonin and Fenton with Senators Edward Martin and James Duff will also participate in the conference. High government department officials will attend.

Vatican City (AP) — Vatican sources said last night Pope Pius, ill since Jan. 25, has been receiving special treatment for his heart and circulation with an appliance designed by a West Berlin doctor.

Vets' Pension Fund Okayed; Check Ordered

Washington (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee yesterday recommended an additional 215 million dollars to pay for veterans' compensation and pensions in the next three months, but ordered a closer check on them.

It said a check by the General Accounting Office has turned up irregularities in the Washington, D. C., area indicating both over-payments and under-payments to the veterans.

The committee said over-payments of $21,460 were found for a single year, while at the same time other veterans got $6,600 less than they should have received.

It said the GAO survey found "an apathy on the part of veterans administration personnel to fully investigate all facets of a case, combined with a willingness to prematurely resolve doubts in favor of the veteran."

Meantime an appropriations subcommittee released records of earlier testimony bearing on other activities of the government.

Arthur S. Fleming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, told the subcommittee that for the first time, the Pentagon had provided a list of what it would need from American industry to fight an all-out war.

He said the listing of items covered about 80 per cent of the multi-billion dollar expenditures for guns, tanks and other equipment that would be necessary for total mobilization. The data now must be reviewed, he said, in the light of the "new look" military program.

Fleming said any all-out mobilization probably would start with a 90-day freeze.

President May Discuss McCarthy Role

By Roger D. Greene

Washington (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) yesterday balked at Republican efforts to put him on the sidelines, without the right to cross-examine witnesses, at the forthcoming probe of his explosive row with Army officials.

At the White House, presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty dropped a hint that President Eisenhower himself may speak out at this news conference today on the subject of McCarthy's role in the big showdown.

The Wisconsin senator insisted on the right to cross-examine, but said he would refrain from any voting in connection with the investigation.

Comments from other members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee which will conduct the televised inquiry, left in doubt what decision it would make on the cross examination issue.

Sen. Symington (D-III) said he thought McCarthy should be barred from quizzing witnesses. He said McCarthy's offer to extend the same right to cross-examination to Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens was "like Sam Sivad saying, 'I bet both of us will make a hole in three.'"

He noted that McCarthy is a lawyer trained in cross-examination, while Stevens is a business man.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said he was not committing himself now on the cross-examination issue but:

"If he should step down," McClellan said, "the subcommittee can extend him the courtesy of asking questions. That's a courtesy which is sometimes extended to other members at hearings."

New McCarthy Hearing Off

Washington (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) yesterday announced and then suddenly postponed plans to strike out in two new investigative forays involving alleged fraud in Alaska and Communists in defense plants.

Two Democrats and two Republican members of McCarthy's seven-man Senate Investigations subcommittee had just cast cold water on the proposal for new hearings when Sen. Mundt (R-SD) sent word of the cancellation.

Sen. Dirksen (R-III) said he doubted the subcommittee should take up any other inquiry before disposing of the McCarthy-Army dispute.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), another subcommittee member, told newsmen: "We are not going to have any hearings as far as I'm concerned that involve other investigations until the pending job is finished."

Crooner Haymes Ordered Deported To Argentina; Will Appeal Directive

Los Angeles (AP) — Crooner Dick Haymes yesterday was ordered deported to his native Argentina on a charge of illegally re-entering the United States after visiting Rita Hayworth in Hawaii last June.

His attorney promptly appealed "this cruel and inhuman banishment, emanating from inspired proceedings," to the Board of Immigration Appeals in Washington.

The attorney, David C. Marcus, said Haymes will fight the order to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary. Marcus declined to elaborate his claim of "inspired proceedings."

In New York, Miss Hayworth, now Haymes' wife, echoed Marcus' sentiment when she declared: "I will stand by Dick. There is something rotten in this proceeding."

Her attorney, Bartley Crum, said Haymes' debts could be settled for $20,000, exclusive of what he owes Jo Ann Dru, his former wife. Haymes has a number of singing contracts, Crum said, and "he and Rita have signed for a motion picture."

District Director Herman R. Landon of the Immigration and Naturalization Service announced the deportation order. It said:

1. A special inquiry officer found that Haymes became ineligible to citizenship because he obtained a World War II draft exemption as a neutral alien.

2. Upon returning to continental United States from Hawaii last June 7, Haymes was "excludable by law at that time" and accordingly was found deportable.

Family Doctors Challenged To Chest X-Rays

By Alton L. Blakeslee

AP Science Reporter

Cleveland (AP) — Family doctors were challenged yesterday to take chest X-rays of all their patients in a big new step to control tuberculosis.

The step was urged before the American Academy of General Practice by Dr. Sol Katz of Washington, D. C., an authority on lung disease and an associate editor of the academy's magazine, GP.

Dr. Katz declared doctors should look for unsuspected TB in every patient, and should also learn more about treating TB patients.

Deaths from TB have declined dramatically, but it still kills 24,000 Americans a year. It is the most common cause of death, outside of accidents, among persons 15 to 35 and is hitting hardest at men over 50, he said.

But the rate of new disease is not going down as rapidly, Dr. Katz warned. There are 250,000 known cases of TB and probably another 150,000 unknown cases.

Reduce Home Down Payment

Washington (AP) — The House Banking Committee yesterday tentatively approved an administration proposal authorizing President Eisenhower to reduce down payments and monthly payments on most homes bought under FHA terms.

It was the committee's first action on an omnibus bill to enact Eisenhower's housing program.

Under the bill, required down payments could be lowered on all existing homes and on all new homes valued above $7,000.

The amount of cash required on a house approved by the Federal Housing Administration at $12,000 value would drop from $2,400 to $1,400. At $20,000 valuation, the drop would be from $4,000 to $3,000.

The proposal would also authorize bigger and longer-term loans insured by FHA for home repairs and improvements.

The committee is now taking up the administration's program section by section. Its action will not be final until the entire bill has been completed.

Nominate Larson For Labor Sect.

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower yesterday nominated Arthur Larson, dean of the University of Pittsburgh Law School, to be undersecretary of labor.

Larson, 43, would succeed Lloyd Mashburn, who recently resigned. Mashburn was an American Federation of Labor official.

Barker Shins Wins Verdict

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — A young woman who barked her shins on an open desk drawer when she spied a dead mouse in her boss' hand was awarded $1,750 yesterday.

Miss Corinne Reynolds, 26, told a Circuit Court jury that Cecil W. Koffman, department manager, shook the mouse in her face as she sat punching an adding machine. She sued for $10,000.

Chavez Ouster Defeated With Five GOP Votes

By Wilmut Hercher

Washington (AP) — The Senate defeated yesterday a Republican attempt to unseat Democratic Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico. It voted 53-36 against invalidating the 1952 senatorial election in which Chavez was declared the winner.

Chavez refrained from voting, but the 47 other Democrats in the Senate joined with five Republicans and Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) to reject a resolution which would have declared Chavez' seat vacant because of "flagrant" irregularities in election procedure.

The result leaves the Democrats with their one-vote edge in the Senate, where there are 48 Democrats, 47 Republicans and one Independent.

The 65-year-old senator, who has represented New Mexico in the Senate since 1935, was deluged with congratulations after the roll-call vote was announced.

Among those who crowded around him to shake his hand was Sen. Potter (R-Mich.), a member of the Senate Elections subcommittee which drafted the ouster resolution. Several other Republicans who voted to unseat Chavez came up to offer their congratulations on his victory.

"This is a proud and joyous occasion for me," Chavez said in a statement.

"I am proud of being an American and to live in a land where justice and fair play still prevail."

Chavez' personal conduct in the campaign and election was never challenged.

But a majority of the three-man subcommittee reported after more than a year of investigation that there was so much vote-stealing and other irregularity of an "unpardonable" nature that nobody could tell which candidate had a majority of the honest votes cast.

Chavez defeated Republican Patrick J. Hurley, onetime secretary of war and ambassador, by about 5,000 votes. There were two recounts in the hotly disputed election.

Chavez expressed his gratitude for the support given by the 53 senators, including Republicans Aiken of Vermont, Cooper of Kentucky, Payne and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey.

He had this to say of senators who sought to unseat him:

"I am also grateful to them, for without their presentation it would have been impossible to vindicate the honor and reputation of my state and the 7,000 election officials... who participated in the conduct of the 1952 election."

"For despite all allegations and despite unfair criticism in the press, New Mexico elections are as honest as any conducted in this country."

Russians Now Market "Veesky"

Moscow (AP)—Veesky has been on the Russian market little more than a week, but in Moscow it is already selling as fast as vodka, the national drink, some big stores reported yesterday.

One downtown shop reported it is selling between 500 and 600 half-liter (just over a pint) bottles daily of the new Sovetskoy veesky, of Soviet whisky.

This "new type drink," distilled in the Soviet Union, was put on sale at the beginning of last week, backed by a big advertising campaign.

Its sale already has far out-distanced that of champagne and wines, even though it costs 24 rubles for a half-liter bottle. The ruble is rated officially at four to the American dollar. Besides the price, Russian buyers must deposit an extra ruble on the bottle.

The next best seller, which has a smoky taste, is also going well in bars.

Sale of veesky is being pushed by the Ministry of Internal Trade. The head of this department is Anastas Mikoyan, who once reported that the Soviet people had developed a great appetite for American "hot dogs."

A big wheel in the Kremlin's campaign to give the Soviet common man more to eat and wear, Mikoyan visited the United States before World War Two and noted American advertising methods.

Advertising distributed with the veesky credits the leish with the original invention.

Dog License Sales Are Up

Frank Weller, Monroe County treasurer, predicted yesterday that dog licenses issued from the Courthouse will reach 4,300 by the end of this month.

Weller said the figure will represent the total issued in 1953. To date, Weller said, 4,150 licenses have been issued.

New York National Guard Orders Investigation Of Cohn's Reserve Record

Albany, N. Y. (AP)—The New York National Guard has ordered "a complete investigation and review" of the reserve service record of Roy Cohn, chief counsel to the McCarthy Senate Investigations subcommittee, guard spokesman said today.

Maj. John E. Kenny, public information officer of the state Division of Military and Naval Affairs, said a National Guard inspector general this week began a "routine" examination of Cohn's service as a result of injuries.

Kenny said some questions had been raised, mostly by the press, about Cohn, who is a center of the controversy between Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) and Army Secretary Stevens.

Kenny would not say what questions had been raised or who ordered the inquiry.

The investigation is being conducted in New York City, where the 27-year-old Cohn, a reserve first lieutenant, serves with the headquarters unit of the guard's Selective Service Section.

Cohn, an attorney, was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Judge Advocate General's Corps in 1952 after presenting his qualifications to an examining board of officers, Kenny said.

The Army recently ordered Cohn to active duty for training from June 12 to 25 at Camp Kilmer, N. J. The commander of the camp is Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, center of the controversy between McCarthy and Stevens.

In New York, Cohn could not be located for comment on the investigation.

FBI Without Suspects In Bank Robbery

Sharon, Pa. (AP)—The FBI said yesterday no suspects are in custody and no charges have been filed in the $4,000 robbery of the First National Bank in nearby West Middlesex Monday.

One report said a Campbell, Ohio, man was being held for questioning, but FBI special agent Fred Hallford discounted that.

Meanwhile, state police and the FBI continued an almost clueless search for the two gunmen who locked seven employees and customers in the bank's vault and escaped with the cash.

Mrs. Margaret O'Neill, a customer, came into the bank shortly after the thieves left and heard the seven shouting in the vault. She called John A. Walker, a bank director and hardware store owner, who opened the vault.

The daring gunmen, unmasked, missed $45,000 in a safe in another vault. The money they took was in denominations of $1 to $50.

Seranton 'Phone Girl Is Honored

Philadelphia (AP)—Mrs. Mary G. Erdman, assistant chief operator in the Pottsville central office of the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania, has been honored for outstanding public service.

Company president W. D. Gillen said Mrs. Erdman was given a Theodore N. Vail bronze medal award, named in honor of the former president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. for "her unusual initiative, quick thinking, persistence, resourcefulness, and proficiency" in obtaining aid for a stricken woman who had managed to take the telephone off the hook before collapsing.

Honorable mention awards were presented to Patricia Ann Dunleavy, an operator in Seranton, and E. L. Walker, district plant superintendent in McKeesport.

Miss Dunleavy was honored for her work in obtaining medical assistance for a couple overcome by coal gas in Seranton, while Walker was lauded for application of first aid to a woman injured in an automobile accident near Donaldson.

U. S. Right To Tax Citizen Income, Regardless Of Where, Wins At Caracas

Caracas, Venezuela (AP)—The United States view that it has the right to tax income of its citizens regardless of where the income is earned prevailed by a narrow margin at the 10th Inter-American Conference yesterday.

The Economic Committee approved a resolution on foreign private capital investments and economic developments after a Chilean amendment which called for taxation of income only "at its source" failed to win sufficient support.

U. S. Delegate Samuel Waugh fought the Chilean proposal, which failed of adoption only because fewer than a majority of the 20 republics represented here voted. "There were nine votes in favor, and one, the United States, against," Five delegates were absent.

As adopted, the resolution recommends:

A climate of favorable conditions to encourage foreign private capital investments.

Suitable economic measures, including monetary and financial, for the purpose of encouraging economic development and maintaining conditions favorable to the flow of private investments.

Measures that will progressively reduce and eliminate international double taxation, and avoid discriminatory or unduly burdensome taxation in order to encourage private investments.

In Great Britain with a population of 50 million, more than 23 million are employed.

Red Cross Swim Projects

One of the most remunerative activities of the Monroe County Chapter, American Red Cross, is the aquatics program designed for youngsters and adults.

It appears to us that this Red Cross aquatics program is one of the most appealing of the many things the Monroe and other chapters present.

The Red Cross drive is nearing an end, and all reports thus far indicate that the public is responding in its usual understanding manner in support of the great organization whose program has meant so much to our nation in times of peace and war.

That the 1954 campaign will be a success no one should doubt. It is unthinkable that a community so well served by such an organization should fail to provide the funds essential for its operation.

Well, Ask Him

According to charges by Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren, an Army general spent $1200 of taxpayers' money to build a doghouse.

After the charges were made public, the officer—Maj. Gen. Roderick Allen—said he had "no idea" the materials for this super-duper doghouse had cost so much but:

"If the Army asks me to pay for it I will gladly do so."

Well, the Army had better be asking—that is, it had better if it has heard of President Eisenhower's volunteered remark at his recent press conference: There is a man, I see in the paper, who built a doghouse. Well, he ought to live in it.

It's arrogant foolishness like this which can give the Army, or any other branch of the Government, a black eye all out of proportion to the actual sum involved.

Let's hope the President's obvious ire over this type of incident simmers all the way down the line. Let's have a national "doghouse" policy for such picayune chiseling.

"If Time Permits . . ."

The stresses of the terribly fateful age in which we live have never been more sharply reflected than in Secretary Dulles' promise that, in the even the President considers it necessary to hit back at vital Soviet aggression with the full force of our atomic arsenal, he will consult the Congress, "if time permits . . ."

The Constitution of the United States clearly provides two now sharply contradictory principles. "It provides that the President is to be responsible for the national safety in emergencies, and it also provides that only Congress may authorize war.

The A-bomb and the H-bomb, as their aviation carriers, were born only yesterday, long after the constitution was written. These weapons, considered in relation to the dynamic animosity of the Communist demi-world, hang over us in unremitting emergency.

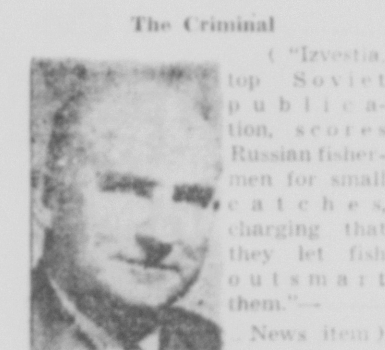

"If time permits . . ." is the bridge of words over which a people committed to government by law may pass in conscience between the two contradictory provisions of our constitution.

"If time permits . . ." is not only an explanation to the American people, but a clear warning to the Kremlin. It notifies the Communist overlords that we will not strangle ourselves in constitutional inhibitions, and it rules out an atomic Pearl Harbor.

If the American people stand behind the warning, there is good reason to hope that time will permit. We must make certain that no enemy profits from constitutional reservations designed solely for the benefit of the American people.

A senate Judiciary Subcommittee has been holding hearings on a bill to prohibit any brewery owning a big-league ball club. We are against it. A radio and TV baseball addict, we have become so accustomed to beer in the play-by-play reports that we would be lost in a crucial series in which malt and hops played no part in the complete box score. We have reached a point where we can name offhand all the brews involved in baseball, tell the league they are in, state which beers are the 1954 contenders and name the bottling plants that have been traded during the winter.

At the tip of our tongue is the batting average of almost every big brewery in the country and we can tell you when each one entered the league, what clubs it has played with during its career and how it stood at the close of the previous season. We often get bored with telecast ball games but never with telecast lager and ale. If a game is featured by bad performances by the players on both sides it is nice to know that the breweries are in fine form and playing great ball. (We recall listening to a big-league game in which one team was out ahead by 14 runs in the third, and it was nice to forget the play-by-play and just get the bottle-by-bottle description of what chemical research was doing for the beer that would bring happiness to mother and the kiddies.)

Our legs are kept in condition each summer by obedience to the appeals to "run now to the icebox." In many a game halted by rain our interest has been held by the top regional beer distributors being interviewed on their sales, their hobbies and their family lives. As each new baseball season arrives we find it fascinating to note which beer salesmen have been waived out of the league, how many distributors have been benched and just which bottlers are holdouts. At times, of course, it gets a little confusing. (We once called up a shortstop for a case of beer and cried, "Take that pitcher out and put a head on him.")

It is easy to understand how it happened that those handouts who got $11,000 in a New York department store couldn't find their way out of the store... They probably got caught between the book counter selling whodunits and the department having a bargain sale of "Dabyn Crymes," our favorite detective, has completed his probe into that bomb that exploded in the washroom at Grand Central Station... He says it was a revenge job by a fellow who resented washroom coin slots... Porfirio Ruzhova has been offered a part with Zsa Zsa Gabor in a Hollywood movie... There will be no request from Babs Hutton for his autograph... "Use No Hooks" has been completely ignored by New York dock workers in its application to the American judicial system, the welfare of a great city, the interest of the general public and the ancient American tradition of abiding by decisions... Shudda Haddim, back from Florida's racing season, says there must be a recession because the annual rise in pink flamingos was off 3 per cent... The eagle is one of the world's oldest national emblems, used more than 5,000 years ago in Mesopotamia.

French Want Jet Planes Manned By Our Pilots

Washington. — The French are urgently asking for more air support in Red-periled Indo-China.

Latest emergency plea is for — American jet fighter pilots and planes. More light (B-26) bombers.

This grim request is in addition to the large number of propeller-type combat and transport planes already furnished the French in their desperate struggle against this eight-year-old Communist aggression. No jet equipment or personnel has been sent to Indo-China. Presumably, the additional light bombers would be manned by French crews.

American personnel in Indo-China consists of several hundred Air Force technicians and a number of civilian pilots, from Major General Claire Chennault's private airline, who were hired to fly military transport planes. Now the dire-pressed French want U. S. jet fighter pilots and planes.

Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, favors that it was on his advice that President Eisenhower approved sending the Air Force technicians and civilian pilots to Indo-China.

General Nathan Twining, Air Chief of Staff, is against acceding to the latest French request. He differed with Radford on the mechanics, and holds the same strong views on providing jet pilots and planes. Twining contends the Air Force does not yet have sufficient trained personnel and jet equipment to become involved in the Indo-China conflict and at the same time fulfill already extensive defense commitments at home and abroad.

The French plea for more air support has been considered at a special White House conference.

Among those participating were Defense Secretary Charles Wilson and the entire Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The French do not have the air strength necessary to halt or cripple the large flow of munitions and other supplies to the Red Vietnamese. Since the Korean truce, the Chinese have greatly increased their military aid to the attackers, particularly in artillery and automatic weapons.

The French were caught by surprise by the amount of Communist artillery, especially anti-aircraft batteries. These Russian guns have taken a heavy toll of French planes provided by the U. S.

Several months ago American military officials in Saigon advised the French to withdraw from Dien Bien Phu, foreseeing what has happened there. But the French maintained they could sustain the exposed strong-hold until the rainy season starts around May 1.

Note: Yuri Rastvorov, the high

Russian espionage agent who defected in Tokyo last winter, has told Intelligence authorities that Japanese Communists are building a "secret army" there; also, that Communist strength in Japan exceeds 100,000. According to Rastvorov, the Reds are definitely planning an uprising in Japan.

Barred Door — Adlai Stevenson has been told that it would be impossible for a Democrat to fill an important State Department job because of the widespread atmosphere of fear and suspicion there.

The former Illinois Governor was given this opinion by his two closest advisers in Congress — Senators John Sparkman, Ala., Stevenson's running mate in 1952, and J. William Fulbright, Ark.

Stevenson asked their views after explaining that he anticipates an Administration overture to name a Democrat to the State Department as a means of offsetting resistance within Republican ranks to the President's foreign policies. Stevenson did not indicate that he has been approached on such a plan.

But the titular Democratic leader expressed firm belief that an offer of this kind will be forthcoming later this year.

"I would consider it next to impossible for a responsible Democrat to serve in the State Department under the conditions that prevail there," said Senator Sparkman. "The Administration may very well try to bring a leading Democrat into the State Department, but his position there would be hopeless. The atmosphere of fear and suspicion is so overwhelming that no Democrat could function; he would be under constant scrutiny and harassment. Even if a Democrat could be found who would take a job there, he wouldn't be able to do anything and would get no credit for his efforts. Even if he wanted to help the Administration he wouldn't be able to."

"It's a deplorable situation," added Senator Fulbright, "but it is exactly as John describes it. Even with the best of will, no Democrat would be able to help the President, or Dulles in the fetid atmosphere that exists in the State Department. They are primarily responsible for that condition and until they do something about cleaning it up, it would be virtually hopeless for a Democrat to try to serve there."

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Constitution Really Protects Traitor, And May One Day Need To Be Amended

Senator Alexander Wiley makes a point that should be obvious to all but is overlooked because historic changes are difficult to note at the time that they occur. He says

"... Let us first note that Soviet Russia has demonstrated that techniques of internal destruction are integral parts of its foreign policy. The U.S.S.R. has, in effect, revolutionized the entire intelligence and related fields in international relations. It has placed espionage on an assembly-line basis, graduating hundreds and thousands of agents, expertly trained as cadres in the interrelated skills of agitation, insurrection, espionage, sabotage and subversion in countries throughout the world."

This has never occurred before in any country. Espionage used to be an art devoted to the single purpose of obtaining military secrets and policy plans. To "agitation, insurrection, espionage, sabotage and subversion" should be added "infiltration," which is the strongest weapon because it places directly inside a government agents of another government. The very existence of such a weapon has a damaging effect since literally everyone becomes suspicious of everyone else. The fact that there could be even one Alger Hiss, one Harry Dexter White, one William Remington lays all employees of government open to the prospect of screenings, investigations, clearances, etc. It is a demoralizing condition.

In a report prepared by the Committee on Foreign Relations with the assistance of the Library of Congress, dealing with the "Adequacy of United States Laws with Respect to Offenses Against National Security," from which the above quotation from Senator Wiley was taken, this idea is emphasized that while only a fraction of one percent of those engaged in the British-American Canadian atomic energy program were in a position to give Soviet Russia any vital information, the Russians got the information: "But, the Soviet network penetrated that tiny fraction of 1 percent and achieved the remarkable feat of stealing crucial secrets through Klaus Fuchs, Bruno Pontecorvo, Alan Nunn May, and David Greenglass—all of whom possessed the variety of relatively rare requisites to secure valuable information about our atomic program."

When, therefore, it is suggested that all the investigations lead to nothing because they usually only turn up small men, the answer must be that who could have been more obscure than Julius Rosenberg or his brother-in-law, David Greenglass? Nevertheless, Rosenberg penetrated two of the most secret areas in the world, Los Alamos and Fort Monmouth; he arranged to place his cells in both organizations; he secured cover for his agents; got the stuff out; and prevented his agents from being caught. It was hoped that the Fort Monmouth investigation would produce the techniques of Rosenberg's operations. Congressional investigations may be a last opportunity to discover how an obscure personality like Julius Rosenberg could do so magnificent a job for his principals.

You're Telling Me

—by William Ritt

A 101-year-old New Yorker reveals that he spends his summers as a wrestling instructor at a recreational camp. There's one centennarian who certainly hasn't lost his grip.

The Air Force reveals a new, tiny missile which is called a "Lazy Dog." We don't know why since it has a mighty fast bite.

One of those African Mau-Mau leaders is known as General China. To the British he's more of a general nuisance.

At this writing those swallows had not yet shown up for their St. Joseph's Day convention at San Juan Capistrano. However, they will! How do we know, A little bird told us, natch!

There are five million song birds kept as pets in the U. S. — Factographs. That's not chicken feed but it sure is a lot of birdseed!

A new type of furniture, we read, is called "feudal oak." And after it's purchased Mom and Pop, no doubt, will devour how to arrange it.

Speaking of the high cost of toys (which we weren't) an 8-year-old California boy was awarded $1,300 damages for injuries when his tricycle was struck by an 11-year-old's bike.

The Constitution in the current situation really protects traitors and it may one day be necessary to amend the Constitution to safeguard this country against the new weapons that the Soviet Universal State uses against us. This is the Constitutional definition of treason:

"Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court."

Neither Congress nor the courts may enlarge on this definition. That is why most traitors are convicted of perjury or not convicted at all. It is growing increasingly difficult to prove that a person is adhering to our enemies and if faced by the question, he need only take a plea under the Fifth Amendment and he is safe.

To prove by "two witnesses to the same overt act" is rarely possible, because the nature of this penetration is so complex and is directed by a vast international power that can order men from country to country, cause them to disappear as though they were dead, provide them with coverage or kill them as may be necessary. Corroborative witnesses thus become difficult to obtain. In the Alger Hiss case, this was a primary issue and finally a type-writer became a witness against a man.

Not all problems can be solved swiftly, by the twist of the wrist. This one requires thorough study. As of today, the agents of the Kremlin are not losing the battle of America.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

It isn't until one reads such a publication as Father James Keller's "Christopher News Notes" that one realizes how far off has grown away from the faith once taught, at his mother's knee, in the every day fight for existence.

Father Keller has made his life's work the teaching of the use of religion as a practical appliance to help one live. Perhaps it is had taste to compare religion with a storehouse. But in the Christopher founder's opinion—at least as I see it—religion is a storehouse in which to store all that is good in the human heart, and from which to draw supplies, as they are needed.

In his recent News Notes, Father Keller says that the Devil is always on the job to stop even the slightest progress of the human mind. Among his most effective methods are:

"1. To persuade us to find fault with others who are trying and thus to justify our doing nothing at all.

"2. To convince us that the effort of one individual is so hopelessly insignificant that we discourage one and all from even trying.

"3. To brand as 'mediocrity' any achievement that is on the way to perfection but has not yet reached it.

"4. To throw cold water on 'small starts' and thus to make sure that there will be no 'starts' at all."

Then he quotes from a letter he received from a young mother, who was terribly scared when she had her first child. She considered it an awful responsibility. She prayed constantly to God, asking Him to help her.

"And He did," she wrote. "In due course of time I learned. Here are just a few of the things that as a wife and mother I have put in line of my duties:

"1. To keep faith in God, and to teach my children to love and include Him in their daily lives.

"2. Always to think twice before I make a criticism of either the children or their father.

"3. To plan the spending of each and every penny of Daddy's pay and teach the children the value of money.

"4. To teach the children truth, politeness, kindness, courage, initiative and decency.

"5. To find time, no matter how busy I may happen to be, to listen to what the children have to tell or ask me, so that I may be sure to give the best possible answers.

"6. To care for little bodies as well as minds and souls."

It seems that the problem of juvenile delinquency is day by day becoming more acute in our big cities.

Recently a New York teacher was attacked by three of his pupils and mercilessly beaten up. Now they are investigating the whole juvenile delinquency program in the New York public schools.

It seems to me that if, instead of so much investigating, there would be more teaching of the thoughts expressed by Father Keller and by the letter from the mother, the whole juvenile delinquency problem could be solved, perhaps not right away, but, "by taking one step after the other in the right direction."

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

No question about the fact that children are growing sweeter and more considerate every day in this television age. In London, for instance, a performance of Hansel and Gretel was being given at the Drury Lane Theatre during the Christmas holidays, and the wicked witch had just jammed the poor Gretel into the oven and shut the door. Ten minutes later a girl's voice in the audience was heard above the music, instructing, "Hey, Witch! Look in that oven and see if she's done yet!"

Pathetic figure is the puny magician John Straley tells about who had to give up his profession. He was so weak the rabbits always pulled him into the hat.

New Movie Process Is Improvement

—by Leonard Randolph

Remember last year when the movies were in the doldrums? Every major studio was in the middle of a giant "economy drive." This meant that almost everybody, including a few relatives, got fired to cut down on the payroll. Television was to blame, the producers said. People were staying home to watch old movies instead of going out and paying money to see new ones.

At the time, things seemed pretty bleak in the celluloid jungle. Then along came Arch Oboler and the first movie in 3-D, an item called "Ewanna Devil." Despite a story straight out of Pearl White's "Perils of Pauline," it made money. So did "House of Wax," a grotesque article about murder in the waxworks which followed, from Warners.

There were a lot of complaints about 3-D, though. Some customers didn't like the past-board glasses you had to wear. Others said the movies made them feel uncomfortable, gave them eye-aches. Whatever the ailment might be, Hollywood said, 3-D didn't seem to be the answer.

Then along comes 20th Century Fox with an "anamorphic" process known as "CinemaScope." It adds width to the screen, cuts off the heads and feet of the actors once in awhile and does little for an "illusion of depth." It also puts part of its half-mile screen out of focus occasionally during the course of the feature.

Movie companies — not only Fox — quickly jumped into print with the assertion that "This was it." Other companies began to grind out C. S. features. Last week it looked as though Hollywood had jumped into the lake before the storm was over. Paramount announced its own new photographic process, an invention known as "VistaVision." Although it bowed close to the Hollywood habit of giving cute names to its new inventions, Paramount departed from tradition, by placing no patents on its new process; allowing other companies to use the process without paying fees.

Early reports from the West Coast on the new process indicate that it is a definite improvement over most Cinemascope films made so far. Paramount is not insisting, either, that theatres use a "stereophonic" sound process for its new method. This would indicate that theater owners might better investigate Paramount's process before making any hard and fast decisions on the method they'll be showing from now on.

Even without VistaVision, however, the Fox process is in for some rough sailing so long as the company sees fit to belabor theater audiences with those five-minute commercials lauding the method after they've bought their tickets. On television, at least, you can turn the commercials off.

Winchell In The Witness Chair

A New York newspaper and its editor filed a lawsuit against this writer (several months ago) alleging libel and slander in the N. Y. Mirror and over the ABC network... The N. Y. Times report of the most recent re-trial examination last Friday (in the Saturday Times) quoted the hearing accurately.

"This is to repeat (for the record and the newspapers) that we did not originate the alleged libels, as charged... We reported the editor (at another pre-trial examination as the defendant in a libel action by Lait and Mortimer) had admitted under oath (after being confronted with it) that he was a member of The Young Communist League between 1934 and 1937... Also: That he (under oath in the same examinations) stated that his rag had "slanted" the news and had "followed the Communist Party line for a year and a half or so" at one time.

The plaintiffs' newspaper (covering the examination of WW) ran true to form—slanting the story here and there... We discussed part of the slanting yesterday.

A number of exchanges between counsel for the plaintiffs and ours went unreported... Because the plaintiffs' lawyer ordered the court reporter: "Don't put that down"... "Expunge all of that!"

He was also miffed because we announced out loud that he didn't enjoy anything we said. That we knew he had made a motion before the court very recently to "throw out all of Winchell's answers." It was denied.

In short, he doesn't like our Questions! Or Answers! Arguments between the barristers followed lengthy questions — to which the counsel demanded a "Yes or No" —

Gov. Fine To Officiate At Groundbreaking For Turnpike

Construction Will Start Immediately

Blakeslee—Gov. John S. Fine will deliver the main address at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow when ground is broken near here for the 110-mile Northeast extension of Pennsylvania's famed turnpike.

A silver-plated spade used on four previous occasions to break ground for Pennsylvania's arterial links will be handled by Gov. Fine to launch the road building project midway between here and White Haven in Kitter Township, Carbon County.

About 250 persons have been invited to a noon pre-ceremony luncheon at Split Rock Lodge it was reported yesterday from the Harrisburg office of Thomas J. Evans, Turnpike Commission chairman. No elaborate program is contemplated for that gathering, the Commission headquarters said.

Official representation from this section at the luncheon will include G. P. O'Neill, for the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce; John Shinn, Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau president and Harold Swenson, executive secretary of the organizations. It is anticipated that many local persons will travel here for the groundbreaking program.

After the luncheon the group, comprising Commission personnel, members of Gov. Fine's cabinet, and State and county officials will leave for the ground-breaking site, escorted by State police from Hazleton barracks.

With Gov. Fine and Chairman Evans will be Edward L. Schmidt, state highway secretary and commission member ex-officio; David E. Watson, and James F. Torrance, secretary-treasurer of the Commission, all scheduled to take part in the program.

Rev. Theodore L. Weatherly, pastor of St. George's Episcopal Church, Nanticoke will offer invocation and benediction. A local school band, unnamed last night by the Commission, is expected to take part.

Located on Route 940 the groundbreaking will take place at a point 5.8 miles west of here and 5.2 miles east of White Haven on the three-mile stretch to be built by Lymington Construction Co. of Williamsport at a cost of $2,110,622.

It is understood that eight or nine intersections, spaced 12 to 14 miles apart, will be built along the entire Northeast Turnpike. Route of the road has not been disclosed as to whether it will follow Lehigh Gap or tunnel through the Blue Mountains north of Slatington.

This extension begins at Plymouth Meeting near Norristown and extends northward to Mose, between Scranton and Wilkes-Barre. Later it will be extended to the New York State line. Two other extensions will cut off, one to the south, connecting with the Delaware River bridge at Delaware Water Gap, the other west to the Susquehanna River.

The original turnpike, 160 miles from Carlisle to near Pittsburgh, was started in 1938. The eastern extension to King of Prussia, 100 miles long was begun in 1948; the western extension to the Ohio border, 67 miles long, was started in 1949 and the extension to the Delaware River near Philadelphia, 33 miles, was started in 1952.

Next turnpike project is expected to be the bridge across the Delaware below Trenton, connecting both State turnpikes. Clearance has been given the project and financial aid is awaited. Pennsylvania's extension will be ready in October.

Huge Unemployment Fund Holds Against Lay-Offs

Harrisburg (AP)—The commonwealth's huge unemployment compensation fund, now being drained at the rate of more than $500,000 a day, is in good shape to meet further unemployment.

That's the estimate yesterday of A. J. Caruso, executive director of the State Employment Security Bureau.

"We're more than a 100 million dollars above the 'peril' point but we should easily hurdle our present claim load before employment picks up the end of April," he told a newsmen.

Caruso revised his previous forecast that the unemployment trend would stop by the end of March.

"We're now finding that we have reached a plateau of about 300,000 unemployed in Pennsylvania," he said. "The spring upswing, however, probably won't take place until next month instead of during March."

The unemployment compensation fund totaled $520,619,000 last week—more than a million dollars above the so-called "peril" point.

The last recent peak was $620 millions in late 1951 and there has been a gradual decline ever since.

Employer contributions finance the fund. They range from 5 per cent of an employer's payroll to 2.7 per cent. The exact rate is determined by the turnover of workers. Employers with the highest turnover pay the highest rate.

Some 188,000 employers in Pennsylvania contribute about 8 1/2 million dollars a month to the fund. Disbursements in the past few months have averaged about 18 1/2 millions a month.

The bureau reported that during the week ended March 12 the bureau received 37,129 new and 241,070 continued claims and paid jobs worth compensation to 115,169 persons.

Maximum unemployment compensation benefits amount to $30 a week for 26 weeks. The average payment so far this year has been $24.98.

Four Days Remain To Register

Only four days remain for Monroe County residents to register for the May 18 primary election, Harry Taylor, commissioners clerk announced last night.

No traveling registrars were used during the current program which ends Saturday. Today, tomorrow and Friday the registration office will be open from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., but on Saturday hours will be extended to 9 p. m. to allow for last minute registrations, Taylor said.

Keller Rites Are Conducted

Funeral services for the late Milton D. Keller, of 5 Elm St., Stroudsburg, were held at 2 p. m. yesterday in Lanterman funeral home, Rev. P. N. Wohlsein, D.D., officiated.

Interment was made in Stroudsburg Cemetery. Pallbearers were Edward Lawson, William Andrews, Milo Bowman, Harry Krause, William Miller and Russell Jones.

Pocono Lake Area Tops Red Cross Quota

The first district to go over the top in the 1954 Red Cross Campaign for Members and Funds was Tobyhanna Township, which yesterday turned in its complete report to Red Cross headquarters.

Tobyhanna Township not only reached its quota of $200 but over-subscribed it by some 37 percent as Mrs. Gerald Hanna, township captain of the drive, turned in over $274.65.

Mrs. Hanna, who lives in Blakeslee, was assisted by the following workers: Mrs. Harold Carter, Mrs. Glenmore Hayes and Mrs. Thomas Hanley, Blakeslee; Mrs. George Shotwell, Rev. Gangaware, Mrs. Harvey Keiper, Mrs. Floyd Miller Jr. and Mrs. William Elias, Pocono Lake; Mrs. Jacob Smith, Locust Ridge; Mrs. Elwood Christman, Miss Marjorie Lewis, Mrs. Freeman Dyson, Mrs. Albert Franks and Mrs. Roger Miller, Pocono Pines; and Miss Rose DeSanto, Pocono Summit.

Assisting Marsh are Frank Frutchey, Leroy Stout, Vernon Keiper, John Wilton, William Keenhold, William Flaherty, Miller Earle, Frank Tierney, Chief Oakey, Capt. E. C. Chaplain, Jacob Cramer, Allen Harvey and Reuben Linder-muth.

Further plans for the annual carnival also were made. The affair will be held July 12 to 18.

It was announced that Leroy Stout, Michael Wash, William Leonard, William Keenhold and William Elaherty will be sworn in as fire police, assisting A. L. Wonsick.

An Easter egg hunt for children also will be sponsored this year. Named to the committee are Wonsick, Frank Frutchey, Lawrence Reitz, Knecht, Michael Sanko, Edgar Fritz and P. Demshick.

Union Members Will Attend New School

Union members will "go to school" shortly in East Stroudsburg and Scranton.

The report emerged from a joint meeting of the executive board of three locals last night—No. 1724, Ronson employees; No. 1643, Stroudsburg Engine Works employees; and No. 1800, Line Material employees.

The boards sat as a joint education committee. Plans were set for the educational institute to be directed by Tom Tippet, grand lodge education director, International Association of Machinists.

The "school" sessions will be held on the following dates in East Stroudsburg: May 3, 5, 7 and 11; and in Scranton on May 4, 6, 10 and 12.

A final session for the entire five-county district No. 128 IAM will be held in East Stroudsburg May 13.

Purpose of the educational institute is to teach union members about such things as union history, conducting of local lodge meetings, grievance procedures, duties of stewards, local officials and committee members.

Several speakers will be featured at the final May 13 session, and a film will be shown. Refreshments will follow.

Local lodges here will invite lodges from Honesdale, Hazleton, Weatherly, Wilkes-Barre and Wyoming.

Co. G Medical Platoon Is Authorized

Command inspection of Company G will take place at the Armory on Monday, March 29.

Also on the agenda: initial organization of the recently-authorized medical platoon for the 109th Infantry Regiment. Monroe County's Company G will be the home station for the medics.

In charge of the inspection and organization detail will be Col. Fred R. Evans, Scranton, commanding officer of the regiment. Area residents interested in becoming associated with the medical platoon are invited to meet with Col. Evans and his staff at the Penn-Stroud Hotel between 6:30 and 7:30 p. m. Monday.

The platoon will consist of two officers and 29 medical corporals. It was authorized this month by the Department of the Army.

Officers may be either physicians or medical service corps administrative officers.

Ministers Exchange Tonight

Rev. John B. Bergstresser, pastor of the Hamilton Lutheran Church, will occupy the pulpit tonight at 7:30 in Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg.

This will mark the fourth in the series of mid-week Lenten vespers services in Grace Church. Each has been well attended and another large congregation is anticipated tonight to hear Rev. Bergstresser's sermon.

Altar gladioli will be placed in memory of Mrs. Melissa Engle by her family. Messrs. Robert E. Cortright, Howard Smith, Paul Daily and Howard Kintner will serve as ushers. Douglas Townsend Jr. will serve as acolyte. The Senior Chancel Choir, under the direction of Carroll R. Ail, will render an appropriate Lenten anthem.

Rev. William F. Wunder, Grace Lutheran Church pastor, will preach in Christ Ev. Lutheran Church, Hamilton Square, tonight at 7:30 in this exchange of pulpits.

Funeral Time Changed

Time of funeral services for the late Sgt. Robert C. Heckman of Canadensis has been changed to 10 a. m. today. They will be held in the Frey funeral home, South Sterling.

Penn State Group Will Organize

Organization of a "Penn State Club" to serve Monroe, Carbon and Pike counties will take place tonight at 8 in the Penn-Stroud hall-room.

Principal speaker will be Dr. Ernest B. McCoy, dean of the School of Physical Education and Athletics at Pennsylvania State University.

Also slated to address the group is Ridge Riley, executive secretary of the Penn State Alumni Association. Riley's analysis of team plays in importance sports contests throughout the school year have become a popular feature with graduates who receive his regular bulletins.

At tonight's meeting a full slate of officers for the fledgling organization will be named. At a preliminary meeting a temporary slate was elected.

Current officers, who will probably be named to full status tonight, are Murrel Kiefer, Stroudsburg, president; Evan Reese, first vice president; Albert H. Heim-bach, second v.p.; John R. Edbach, third v.p.; Miriam R. Lark, secretary and Wilmer B. Frisbie, treasurer.

When fully established, the Penn State Club will act as liaison between the university, its graduates, present students and parents of persons now attending the school. Also eligible for membership in the club are those high school students who plan to attend Penn State this fall and their parents.

Dr. McCoy was formerly assistant athletic director at the University of Michigan. He was appointed to the Penn State position in 1952. He succeeded Mr. Carl P. Schott.

All Penn State graduates, parents of present students, prospective students and their parents are invited to attend club meetings, Kiefer said.

Brush Fires Plague Bangor

Bangor—After a two-day sur-recease, brush fires began plaguing the fire department here again yesterday.

The fire broke out at 12:30 p. m. in a field next to Pritchard's coal yard off lower Pennsylvania Ave.

It was about the eleventh alarm in the past seven days, and all but one have been brush fires. There were four reported Friday, and all were quenched by the fire company.

Fire Chief Ben Albert said he thought "errant youth" might be responsible. Most of the fires have started about the noon hour.

U.S. District Court Judge Rules Bridge Commission Can Demolish Free Bridge

U. S. District Court Judge Phillip Froman yesterday ruled the Delaware Joint Toll Bridge Commission has power to demolish a free bridge between Delaware and Upper Mount Bethel Township.

The decision was a hard blow to a citizens' group composed of residents of Portland, Upper Mount Bethel Township and Warren County, N. J. The group had filed suit in the court to prevent closing of the bridge; now plans to appeal to a higher court.

Judge Froman dismissed the suit in a 34-page opinion in which he held that the bi-state commission had been given authority by both New Jersey and Pennsylvania legislatures in 1947 to destroy free bridges when necessary to provide improved transportation across the Delaware River.

The commission said that it was required to tear down the bridge in accordance with its bonding agreement.

State Sen. Wayne Dumont Jr., (Warren County), said yesterday that attorneys for the citizens group are now preparing an appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court in Philadelphia.

This appeal, Dumont said, would be taken before April 5, time set by Judge Froman in his opinion for a stay of judgment.

Forman's opinion stated: "Lack of redress for individual loss is a calculated risk that goes with membership in a society wherein the greatest good for the greatest number is the objective."

Forman said the group seemed to think the commission was "confiscating their bridge . . . that the bridge would remain in existence always . . . and be forever free to their use."

The judge commented: "It must, however, be recalled that it was the money not only of the citizens of Pennsylvania but as well the citizens of New Jersey and not only those citizens who used the bridge but many thousands who never saw it that paid for the bridge in 1932, and it was freed not only to taxpayers of the states but to any who desired to use it. It was a venture for the benefit of all."

Fred Fuchs Jr., Belvidere, president of the Delaware River Interstate Citizens Association, agreed with Dumont that an appeal will be filed.

"We are going ahead with the appeal. We will go clear to the top if necessary. We feel that we are in the right and we are going to make it a fight to the finish, commission or no commission."

"We are not going to compromise. There will be no more discussion on weight limits. The local people have backed us up 100 per cent and we are going to carry it out to the finish. We realize that this legal fight will set a precedent which can have effects throughout the United States."

The Memorial to stand for years to come must be carved from fine and faultless stone. We offer this to you.

Bedding Needs Special Spring Cleaning Job

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newfeatures Writer

Spring cleaning includes bedding too. Years ago the home-maker wasn't averse to joining her neighbors in a mass morning sunning and airing of bedding over the window sill, porch railing of back-yard clothesline. This is a practice that has been made almost obsolete by the rapid growth of cities and towns.

During the spring, bedding may be aired discreetly at open windows, hung over a line of chairs. A good thorough cleaning may be given to mattress, spring, cover, pad and pillows every few months, but with special zip in the Spring.

Here are some suggestions formulated by cleanliness experts to help in a more effective cleaning job for bedding:

Mattress—Every mattress should have a thorough vacuuming once a week. Turn them frequently to avoid developing uncomfortable hollows and to preserve a firm contour. At regular intervals during the year—as well as Spring your mattress needs an all-over scrubbing. Work on small areas at a time, using soap jelly whipped into a lather and as little moisture as possible. One side of the mattress should dry before the other side is tackled. If possible this job should be done in the sunshine. A good day is essential to speed the drying process and leave the mattress fragrant. An electric fan may be used in an emergency.

Foam rubber mattresses must be washed quickly, without too much moisture. This is a long-drying material.

Pads and covers—slide fastened covers of pre-shrunk muslin are washed easily by hand or machine, need no ironing. Plastics may be sponged clean with warm suds right on the bed, wiped with a rinse cloth, then wiped completely dry. Pads should be washed, rinsed and placed lengthwise over a parallel clothes line to dry. Quilted pads should not be ironed as air space in the stuffing is necessary to keep pads puffy and absorbent. Reverse pads during drying, shaking them vigorously to encourage fluffiness.

Pillows—Feather, foam rubber, or dacron pillows may be washed easily. Just squeeze the pillow gently in warm soap suds. Two sudings are better than one. Three rinsings are better than two. Never wring the pillow, especially if filled with foam rubber. Put your foam rubber pillow on a flat surface after it has been rinsed. Press excess moisture out with clean bath towels applied to each side. Let the pillow lie flat to dry at room temperature, never in direct sunlight. Feather pillows should be squeezed gently, but may be hung on a line to dry. Plump them frequently to distribute the feathers. Dacron filled pillows can be machine washed, dried in a jiffy.

Bed Springs—Treat box-type springs as you would the traditional mattress. The blower vacuum attachment is wonderful for ridding flat or open-type springs of dust and dirt. Spread a damp cloth or paper beneath the springs to catch the dust. Go over wire springs with a cloth wrung out in soapsuds. To prevent the chance of rust, finish off the operation with a cloth dampened with a few drops of lemon oil.

Picture Window Color Schemes

Large, light-admitting picture windows give home owners an opportunity for bold color planning often not practical with dim, artificially lighted rooms.

With sunshine flooding the room, walls may be painted with deeper colors—particularly cool colors like blues and greens. Paint experts advise caution in the amount of warm reds and yellow-oranges used in such rooms. While, because of its high light reflection, should also be employed judiciously.

Consider Three Costs

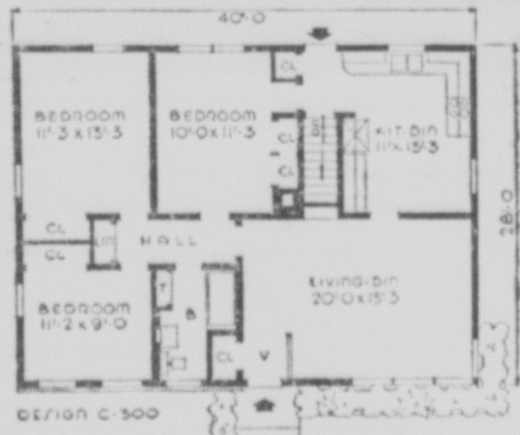

Three costs must be considered in buying a heating system—initial cost, operating cost, and maintenance cost. Quality equipment, expertly installed keeps operating and maintenance costs low.

Wax Fireplace Brick

Fireplace brick can be kept looking nice by coating the finish brickwork with wax or linseed oil. This prevents the bricks from absorbing soot and dirt when the fireplace is in operation.

Power Tools Designed To Save Fingers Of Amateur

AP Newfeatures

How to avoid sawing, drilling and otherwise maiming your fingers or hands in this do-it-yourself age of power tools is a problem that has been tackled by the tool makers with interesting results.

A new model, multi-purpose woodworking machine has been developed for the home workshop with a variety of foolproof safety features to protect the amateur. With no exposed belts or pulleys, the machine is equipped with circular saw cover guards both above and below its work table to make it virtually impossible to get one's hands near the whirling blade.

An electric switch that can be flicked off with a wave of the hand, but which cannot be turned on accidentally, is another feature. The manufacturer says the tool was developed for school use in order to bring a maximum amount of safety into the workshop.

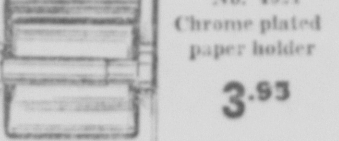

Demonstrated at New York's Do-It-Yourself Show, this machine attracted considerable attention as the first dial-your-job power tool. Equipped with a dial, the tool can be set to "saw," "sand," "route," "drill," etc., with speeds adjusted accordingly from 700 to 3,200 revolutions per minute.

Corner Cupboards

Corner cupboards in the dining room utilize waste space and each floor-to-ceiling unit provides as much as 26 cubic feet of storage and display of china and glassware.

Living Room Layout Beamed At Full Use

Nothing adds more to the charm of a room than the appearance of being lived in. Yet, so many rooms, although luxuriously and expensively furnished, lack this inviting atmosphere.

When decorating or redecorating the living room, which of course, is the most important room in the home, a good idea is to consider the individual tastes and various activities of all the members of the family. Then plan groups so that the room as a whole can be thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

For informal entertaining, arrange conversation groups where two or more may sit and talk comfortably and easily. Be sure these groups are so situated as to be free of traffic lanes.

Set-Up for Games

For the bridge or canasta fans, much can be contributed to their enjoyment by placing a permanent set-up for games in a quiet spot.

Give the man of the house a corner of his own where he can relax in peace. Furnish this corner with a large comfortable chair, and a firm good-sized table to hold smoking equipment and an efficient lamp. Place bookshelves conveniently near for books, newspapers and magazines and space for a small radio.

Use another area of the room for a piano, combination radio-phonograph or a television set. Plan sufficient storage space for sheet music and records. Have small but comfortable and easy-to-move chairs nearby.

Plan the color scheme to tie these various groups together to invite relaxation and complete enjoyment of the room.

Anodes Check Corrosion In Home Hot Water Tank

One of the important developments in equipment for heating the domestic water supply is protection against corrosion of the tank and piping, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau reports.

Three general methods are employed to protect hot water storage tanks against corrosion.

The method most generally used is to install one or more anodes inside the hot water tank. An anode is a rod made of a special alloy which disintegrates in the water.

By means of electrolytic action, the metal from the anode is transferred to the wall of the tank. Eventually, of course, it is necessary to replace the rods.

Another method is to line the tank with a material that resists corrosion. Some manufacturers use tanks in which glass has been fused to the steel shell of the interior of the tank.

Still another method to guard against corrosion is to use tanks made of non-ferrous materials such as copper or monel metal.

Corrosion is likely to occur in the piping system where two dissimilar metals are joined. A new type of union with non-conductor

WIL-BOND before Repainting

A glossy varnished or enameled surface should be cleaned and dulled before repainting. It's easy with WIL-BOND. Just dampen a rag with this liquid and rub down the surface. Oil come wax, grease and dirt—and the gloss is thoroughly dulled. The new finish spreads smoothly and adheres perfectly—no danger of a streaky, unwhitely result.

Harry Grimm Completes 37 Years As Mail Man

By Bob Staph
Greentown—Yesterday's delivery of mail to rural delivery boxholders here was much the same as it has always been—it arrived on time, included the usual assortment of first class matter, newspapers, parcel post and advertising material.

There was just one addition, a printed card which read, in part:

Department directed a daily trip and a lifetime's work was begun, interrupted only by a six-month period of service in the armed forces during World War I.

Financial remuneration in the beginning was pitifully small according to present day standards. Harry received $56 per month during the first 10 months of his

it was the failure of the mail to reach the Greentown postoffice that prevented him from making "his appointed rounds."

An active member of the national organization of the Letter Carriers association, Harry helped organize the Wayne-Pike chapter of the association in 1923 and has served as its president for most of that period. He has at-

"Almost an average lifetime has been spent in almost daily contact with you. Births, deaths and movements in and out have been viewed; joys and sorrows, trials and tribulations have been shared."

"The passing of time has contributed to our mutual relationships and the inexorable changes of this same relentless time now demands that these associations with you, associations that have been largely pleasant and will long be pleasantly remembered, be severed."

"After so long a time it is hard to say 'Good-bye' so I won't say it—just 'God bless you' and 'I'll be seeing you around.'"

Thus Harry L. Grimm announced his retirement as Greentown's rural delivery carrier after 37 years and four months of faithful service. Although his retirement won't be effective until April 1, this was Harry's last swing around the circuit which he first began on December 1, 1916.

His health has forced the veteran postal employee to call it quits at the age of 62. During the past few years he has been forced to turn his duties over to his substitute, Charles Walters, with increasing frequency until, at the insistence of his physician and his family, he agreed to give up the daily trip through the rather sparsely settled area of Pike County.

He began on an every-other-day schedule but after ten months the service was raised to an even $100 when he began his daily trips. There was no equipment allowance in the early days, making the replacement of transportation a study in "stretching the dollar."

"Road conditions were a far cry from what we have today," Harry says. "There was mud in the Fall, mud, mud and more mud in the Spring, not to mention plenty of snow during the dead of Winter. As a matter of fact, there were only about four months when driving conditions were favorable."

For the first ten years, horse-drawn equipment was necessary most of the time during the winter months. Later, a "snowmobile," a contrivance equipped with skis in front and a half-track arrangement in the rear, replaced the horses. This vehicle with the skis replaced by conventional wheels also liked the mud problem.

Appointed during the Woodrow Wilson administration, Harry has served with three postmasters, Mrs. Agnes Hopps Wallick, Richard Hazelton and the incumbent, Carroll Daly. Initially, he served 68 boxholders on the route which measures 33.8 miles in the winter and 41.2 miles in summer.

Population increases, principally in the Promised Land State Park area and along the Pike County shore of Lake Wallenpaupack, have swelled the number of patrons served to about 250 during the height of the resort season and the number of pieces of mail handled has been as high as 5,000 daily on occasion.

Despite the difficulties encountered over the years, Harry has lost only four day's pay due to non-delivery and in each instance tended many state conventions of the group, serving for three years on the executive committee and has attended four national conventions.

There has been time, too, for a wide variety of community activities. A member of the Hemlock Grove Methodist Church, he served for 20 years as the superintendent of its Sunday School and is presently president of the church's board of trustees. He is a director of the First National Bank of Newfoundland and has been affiliated with the activities of the local Parent-Teacher association, the Boy Scouts and the Red Cross.

Harry and the former Blanche Hensler were married in 1920 and have reared a family of three; a son, James, a chemical engineer who recently completed a tour of duty with the U. S. Army and two daughters, Jean, Buck Hill Falls, and Mrs. Gertrude Elitz, Stroudsburg.

Although he isn't quite sure just what he'll do with all the time he'll have on his hands, it would be a pretty good bet that you'll be able to find Harry puttingtering around his Brink Hill home in the summer and, having experienced just about everything unpleasant about winter, will be found basking in Florida's sunshine during that time.

Rep. Walter Protests Displacement Of Signal Depot Workers

Asks Wilson To Prevent Transfers

Rep. Francis E. Walter yesterday urged Defense Secretary Wilson to prevent the transfer of employees from the Baltimore Signal Depot to Tobyhanna.

Such a transfer, Walter indicated, would work an increased hardship on the "permanent unemployment problem" in Northeastern Pennsylvania. This, the Congressman pointed out, would be in direct opposition to one of the major reasons the Signal Depot was located at Tobyhanna originally.

The Baltimore depot is now being closed down due to a "reduction in military requirements", according to the Army.

Announcement of the shutdown was made last Friday night by the Army. In a statement released at the same time, Sen. James H. Duff, R-Pa., said he had learned that an undisclosed number of the Baltimore depot's 2,600 employees would also be transferred to Tobyhanna.

Army spokesmen would not comment on the number of workers who would be transferred under the present plan. In a bulletin to employees of the Tobyhanna depot, however, commanding officer Col. William Mack said:

"Transfer of the functions and personnel from the Baltimore depot may cause the personnel of this installation to be reduced."

In a letter mailed to Charles Wilson, Secretary of the Defense Department, yesterday, Rep. Walter called attention to mounting fears among workers in this region.

"The people in the Northeastern section of Pennsylvania are greatly disturbed," the letter said, "by the statement made by Sen. Duff to the effect that employees of the Signal Corps Depot at Baltimore, Md. will be transferred to the depot at Tobyhanna, Pa."

"One of the principal reasons this installation was located at Tobyhanna was to relieve the permanent unemployment problem that exists in that area," Rep. Walter continued.

"To bring more people there would defeat this purpose and aggravate an already acute situation," the Congressman's letter said.

"I respectfully request that no personnel be moved to Tobyhanna, but that particular emphasis be placed on recruiting the employees needed at this installation from the army of unemployed from this area."

"I shall await your early and, I trust, favorable advice," the letter concluded.

Rep. Walter's letter was the first official opposition to the proposed transfer of workers from Baltimore to Tobyhanna.

The action was taken in the face of an apparently well-organized effort to move employees beginning immediately.

Unofficial sources indicated last Friday night that "about 700 employees" were to be transferred between now and July 1. Complete shutdown of the Maryland depot will be made by Dec. 31.

Rep. Walter's investigation of the proposed move disclosed Friday night that only a skeleton force would be retained at Baltimore. The Congressman estimated that "around 100 persons" would still be employed there to maintain a garage system.

Army officials would make no other comment over the weekend than that Baltimore employees would be given a choice of separation from government employment or moving to the Tobyhanna site.

Most of the Maryland depot's functions will be moved to Tobyhanna. No estimate of the number of employees to be transferred has yet been released by Army authorities.

Lions Club Decides To Sponsor Benefit Circus

Stroudsburg Lions at their dinner meeting last night in the Penn-Stroud Hotel were informed by President William Hinton that the club will sponsor a circus here on Wednesday, May 19.

The show is the Kelly-Morris Circus and will appear here for its final showing in this area this season, enroute to a summer's bookings in New England. The president explained that the board of directors had met in special session and voted to sponsor the circus. The agreement offered to the club has many attractive features.

James Somers, who has been transferred to the Sears store at Newton, N. J., has been obliged to transfer his club membership to the New Jersey municipality and Al DeRenzis was appointed to succeed him as attendance chairman of the local club.

The session was marked by the presence of a number of guests and there was an excellent general attendance. The program of the meeting was a moving picture dealing with Greyhound Bus Travel all over the country but with a minor love story woven in. The basic theme was in the experience of an aviator mustered out of the service and anxious to renew acquaintances with old air force friends and especially a nurse, with whom he had fallen in love.

Great scenic beauty and historic appeal were worked in as the bus proceeded. Following the club meeting, sessions of the Board of Directors and a meeting of the committee on nomination of officers for next year were held.

Barrett High Students Visit Science Show

Cresco—Barrett High School students recently made a trip to the science exhibition at Temple University, Philadelphia.

Making the trip were Earl Rose Jr., Sylvia Thomas, Sandra Smith, Graham Andoe and Richard Huque. Mrs. Earl Rose Sr. was chaperone.

The science show is an annual affair, sponsored by the university to create added interest among senior and junior high school students. It covers a variety of fields, ranging from chemistry and biology to nuclear physics.

The students watched a demonstration in which a torch melted a brick with intense, 5000-degree heat. They also attended a lecture by Dr. Marcus O'Day, head of rocket research for the U. S. Air Force, on "The Exploration of Outer Space with Rockets."

Red Cross Blood Drive Needs 50 Walk-Ins Today To Meet Monthly Quota

With pledges totaling 110 pints and a 155 quota set for today's visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile unit to the American Legion Home, East Stroudsburg, leaders of the program are counting heavily on walk-ins to achieve the goal.

LeRoy Mikel, Monroe County blood bank chairman, said last night the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College has joined Legionnaires in efforts to make the drive a success.

Judge Rhodes Resigns From Trusteeship

Superior Court Judge Chester H. Rhodes this week resigned his post as president of the board of Pennsylvania Military College.

Judge Rhodes cited the increasing "pressure of official duties" as his reason for giving up the post. He will remain a member of the official board and the advisory committee for the college.

Edwin A. Howell, Chester attorney, was named to be his successor as president of the board.

New car dealers in the United States declined in numbers from 45,165 to 42,181 between 1953 and 1954.

The fraternity, comprising former Boy Scouts, already has pledged 77 pints and the Legion membership has offered 33 pints to date, he said.

Faced with a 35-pint deficit, the local Red Cross branch is sending its entire corps into today's campaign from 12 noon to 6 p. m. and appealed for volunteers to aid in their effort. Members of the nurses aides, Grey Ladies, registered nurses, canteen service, motor corps and administration assistants will join other volunteer groups on duty at the Legion Home.

Nice Work—

AND YOU CAN GET IT!

Nice work, Mr. Driver, when you signal a turn. Nice work when you yield the right of way . . . stay within posted speed limits . . . obey traffic signs and signals.

It is just as easy to form a good habit as it is to form a bad habit. You can get into the habit of being a "nice" driver — of using good motor manners.

A kind person never willfully hurts another — and being as courteous on the road as you are in your home will serve to protect yourself and others from injury or death on our highways. And good highway manners are as contagious as a friendly smile!

Experts in traffic safety know that many lives are sacrificed to bad motoring manners every year. Your life could be among them. Drive courteously . . . carefully. Make 1954 the safest year ever!

This message in the interest of highway safety is one of a series prepared and disseminated by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue.

Roster Of Women Qualified For Public Service Being Made By AAUW Committee

If more qualified women are not placed on appointive boards and other posts of public service in Pennsylvania and Monroe County, it will not be the fault of the local Status of Women committee of the Stroudsburg branch of the American Association of University Women.

They are preparing a roster, at state request, of women qualified for public office, which will be kept on file both locally and in the state and national offices for the information of those who could use their particular talents.

At present the roster includes the names of 25 women, the status of women chairman, Mrs. Theodore M. Moore, has announced. They are women who have shown unusual ability in many different directions, she said, so that there is a great variation of training, interest and activities among the group.

The roster is not confined to members of AAUW by any means, Mrs. Moore said, nor is it necessary for the candidate to be a college graduate. She also emphasized that it is a growing list to which the names of qualified women can be constantly added. The committee will welcome names of candidates at any time, and forms recording the qualifications for public office can be secured from any member of the Status of Women committee here: Mrs. Howard Eckert, Mrs. Robert Hartman and Mrs. Theodore Moore.

They plan to place the local roster in a central location so that various community groups can use it for the purpose for which it has been established. It has also been submitted to state and federal authorities so that officials may know what women are available for appointive boards or posts of public service.

The roster includes such information as the name, age, voting residence, marital status, health, religious preference and education of the candidate as well as her experience in government, in political and civic activities, in administrative experience, club affiliations, publications and experience in speaking, radio, TV, and writing.

Marine Aux. Will Receive Its Charter

The Marines Corps Auxiliary will become a member of the national Marine Corps Auxiliary in a formal ceremony to be held at their monthly meeting at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Home, Stroudsburg, on Thursday night at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Lillian Hartman will present the auxiliary with its national charter at this meeting, when it is hoped that all members will be present.

Mary Reed Circle

Miss Christine Christensen will entertain the Mary Reed Circle Two of East Stroudsburg Methodist Church at her home, 55 Ransberry Ave., Thursday at 8 p.m. A large attendance is anticipated.

Past Councilors Meeting

Past Councilors, Daughters of America will meet on Friday night at the home of Mrs. Lillian Stevens, Stroudsburg.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

The important service which that clearing house for special events planned by the Woman's Club can render is brought into focus by a coming conflict. On April 9, which also happens to be Teachers Institute, there is scheduled both the Kiwanis Fashion Show and the East Stroudsburg Band's 20th anniversary concert.

Of course there are plenty of people to make both events a success, but inevitably there will be some people who will have to make a choice between one or the other.

Even a clearinghouse, however, wouldn't insure having a conflict-free night, because there are only so many dates on the calendar, and half a dozen organizations waiting to grab the first comparatively free date.

It's the same with rummage sales and bake sales, with organizations standing in line, practically, to yell "dibs" on the empty storerooms and unscheduled Saturdays.

Well, everybody has their own problems, and none of them more pressing right now than deciding whether to spend a day off getting caught up on the ironing or on washing more clothes to add to the heap.

Or—and this is much more likely—to spend it catching up on the magazines which accumulate in every household with children selling magazine subscriptions. After all, we can take the position that it's more important for Mother to be well-informed than for Junior to be well-pressed. But can we make it stick?

Turkey Dinner Served To 160 At Gap Church

Delaware Water Gap—There were 160 guests served at the turkey dinner given by the women of the Presbyterian Church Auxiliary at the church last Thursday night. Mrs. Fred Decker was hostess with Miss Annette Kulp, Miss Vera Storm, Mrs. Lewis Ace, Mrs. John Jennings Jr., and Mrs. Francis Drake as waitresses.

Mrs. Russell Buzzard, Mrs. Edythe Giebe and Mrs. Walter Brytogle served in the pantry. Mrs. H. J. LaBar was in charge of the coffeeurn. The kitchen crew was Mrs. Elam Gray, Mrs. Henry Kulp, Mrs. Clifford Hauser, Mrs. R. Shellenberger, Mrs. Henry Baker and Mrs. Anna Hartman.

Rev. Luther Markin, pastor of the church, was official dishwasher for the evening and kept busy three men with dish towels: Messrs. John Wilson Jr., Clifford Hauser and Henry Kulp.

Easter Party For Children Of Bushkill

Bushkill—Frank Messerle, president of the Bushkill PTA, presided at the association meeting on Friday night. Mrs. Chester Brish was appointed as chairman for the school children's Easter party and activities and has named Mrs. Marshall Keiper as co-chairman.

Ways and means of raising money were discussed and Mrs. J. K. Britton was voted to head a committee for a fund raising project.

The president announced that at the April 16 meeting there will be election of the nominating committee with the election of officers of the association to be held in May.

Following the meeting Mrs. Horton Stettler and Mrs. Lawrence J. Butz were hostesses and served refreshments.

Missionary Meeting At Starnes Home

Blakeslee—The missionary meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Blakeslee Methodist Church was held Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Daniel Starnes. The devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Grace Bush with Mrs. Starnes leading the prayer.

Mrs. Ruth Daniell led the study of the book on Spanish-speaking Americans with Mrs. Allen Waltz and Mrs. Elsie Blakeslee taking part.

Mrs. William Staples was asked to write a missionary skit to be presented at one of the Saturday Family Night programs which the Methodist Youth Fellowship is sponsoring at the community house.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Allen Waltz, Mrs. LaVere Starnes and Mrs. Elsie Blakeslee served refreshments to Mrs. Dorothea Blakeslee, Mrs. Ruth Daniell, Mrs. Grace Bush, Mrs. George Kerrick, Mrs. Oliver Cobleigh and Mrs. William Staples. The next meeting will be held at the Staples home.

Birthday Party At Grandparents'

Anatomink—Claudia Besecker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Besecker, was three years old on Friday, March 19. She was honored at a party held at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Metzgar.

Refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. David Besecker and children, Barbara, Dawson, and the guest of honor, Claudia; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frantz, of Scott-run, and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Metzgar.

Smithfield PTA Studies School Needs

The differences between jointure and merger, the procedure to be followed as a school outgrows its space, and Smithfield Consolidated School's need of an auditorium and gymnasium were all discussed last night at the meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association at the school at Minisink Hills.

Walter Sebring, assistant county superintendent of schools, was the guest speaker. His topic was "State Appropriations".

Citing statistics, he pointed out that $1,400,000 was spent for education in Monroe County. In the county, he said, $237 is the current average cost per pupil with $168 of that going for construction and $125.21 for teachers salary.

The state appropriation for education is based on units of instruction within the school, and which includes $200 per year for each one-room school closed, part of the transportation costs. If the school has a kindergarten, the state pays on the teacher, not the number of pupils.

With this as a background, the question period opened. In pointing out the difference between jointure and merger, Mr. Sebring pointed out that with a jointure of school districts, each district retains its identity and its school board and need be approved by the county and state boards of education, but not by the electorate. In a merger, the districts lose their identity and works as a single unit, and must be approved by the electorate. The state appropriation in each case would total about the same amount, although worked out by a different formula.

Another important question brought up was what procedure would be followed in case the population grew to the extent that either the seventh and eighth grade be sent to East Stroudsburg, or an addition be built. Mr. Sebring pointed out that the first step would be to contact the East Stroudsburg school board to find out whether the additional two grades could be accommodated in the East Stroudsburg Junior High School. If they could, then the Smithfield school board would have to decide what course to follow.

The need of Smithfield for an auditorium and gymnasium and the possibility of state aid for such building were dependent on many factors, he pointed out, and it would be impossible to hazard a guess without specific plans.

The second speaker at last night's meeting was Dr. Charles Rushmore who spoke on "Cancer in Children". He defined the terms and the types of cancer prevalent among school children, and the importance of early detection.

Following the program refreshments were served with Mrs. Hazel Lesoinne as chairman of the committee in charge.

Fashion Show At College On March 31

The women of the community are invited to attend the annual Fashion Show at the college sponsored by the Woman's Athletic Association which will be held on March 31 at 8 p.m. in the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium.

There will be no admission charge but during the intermission, a silver offering will be accepted.

Theme of this year's show is "Focus on Fashion", and the girls have arranged wearing apparel from ten local merchants for the show. Dolores Krell will serve as narrator, assisted by Josephine Swartley.

Kathy Reinhard is director of the show with Marjorie Besecker and Carol Arnold in charge of decorations; Grace Richm and June Cockley in charge of models; and Pat Cottrell in charge of clothes selections.

The models will include Corinne Smith, Pat Shetlock, Pat Cottrell, Gail Swoyer, Sandra Fees, Joan Sabatine, Grace Richm, Jean Hilsley, Linda Scheinman, Jane Cockley, Connie Kuchinsky, Lisbeth McDonald, Carol Arnold and Marjorie Besecker.

Martha Ellen Nauman Is One

Anatomink—Martha Ellen Nauman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nauman, was one year old on Friday, March 19. The occasion was celebrated on Sunday afternoon at her home when she received a number of gifts, and two birthday cakes were served, one baked by her mother and one by Miss Ruby LaBar.

Those present were: Mrs. Florence Van Vleet, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Van Vleet, Mrs. Cora Transue, Miss Ruby LaBar, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nauman.

Victory Dinner Is Held By Grace Guild

The victory dinner for the winning membership team in the Woman's Guild of Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, was held last night with about 60 women attending. The turkey dinner was served by Mrs. LeRoy Morris and the members of her team in honor of Mrs. Nathan Kishpaugh's team.

After the dinner, Mrs. Jacob Nittel and Mrs. Alphonse Meyers were named as chairmen of next year's membership drive. Colored slides of trips to various parts of the country were shown by Dorothy Kitzman with Mrs. Stella Nase as narrator.

Miss Bryan To Speak Thursday At Portland PTA

Portland—The Parent Teachers Association of the Portland School district will meet on Thursday night at 8 in the school gymnasium.

The guest speaker will be Miss Eloise Bryan, psychologist for the Stroudsburg schools, who will speak on "Our Children's Needs." There will be a business meeting preceding the program. Refreshments will be served by the fourth grade mothers.

Memorial Services Held Here

The highlight of the joint meeting of Gateway Post No. 56, Society of the 28th Division, with the members of the Alfred Frymeyer Post No. 52 of Bethlehem was the memorial service. The meeting was held at the American Legion Home, East Stroudsburg on Sunday afternoon.

Central Vice Commander Horatio Haas Jr. presided over the meetings which were conducted by Commander Stanley Smith and auxiliary president, Sarah Frantz, of Post 56 and Commander Rader and Auxiliary president Mabel Simon of Post 52.

Haas conducted the combined memorial service which featured the national chaplain of the society, Shadrach Jones of Wilkes-Barre Post 4 as the memorial speaker.

Other guests introduced included National Commander Ted Stegmaier and National Vice Commander Robert Simon.

Mary Jane Pugh, national vice president at large of the auxiliary introduced the other national auxiliary officers: Neola Anderson, Eastern vice president; Agnes Jones, chaplain; and Wanda Haas, historian.

Charles Gallagher, head of the Shrine Committee, reminded all members to attend the Memorial Services at the Boalsburg Shrine on Sunday, May 23, at 1:30 p.m. Two new monuments, one of them in memory of the 109th Infantry, will be unveiled at that time.

After the meeting, a buffet supper was served to the 80 members and guests present.

Women who appreciate elegance in jumbo size, will love Helena Rubinstein's "Cologne Foam", a body rub that softens the skin and leaves a fragrance far more lasting than the usual after-bath liquid rub. This new addition to the Rubinstein line comes in four glorious scents—White Magnolia, my favorite; Command Performance, Heaven Sent, and Apple Blossom Time. It is packaged in a special chunky can with a spray top, and rolls over you like whipped cream coming out of a pastry tube. Thick... white... soft... and rapidly disappearing, it looks for all the world like the topping on a sundae. The price is $2.75, but it'll last a long time—just like the fragrance it spreads so lavishly...

Betty Bartholomew reports a delightful encounter with one of our tiniest customers the other afternoon. It seems this very young lady was prowling around our floor covering department trying to find Santa Claus, or at least some sign of the throne on which he sat last Christmas. "Will you help me hunt for it?" the child asked. "If you help me look I'll help you look." Betty said she'd like to but expressed the fear that Santa had taken his easy chair along with him to the North Pole. "Of course," she promised, "Santa will be returning, chair and all, next November." Golly—when Spring arrives is Santa THAT near at hand?

One customer tells me she isn't worried about Christmas. Her shopping is almost finished—thrillingly too—thanks to our 79th Anniversary Sale. "I bought slacks for my husband, sport shirts for my son-in-law, a jacket for my grandson, slips for my granddaughter, stockings for several friends, and bath soap for my secret pal, all on sale. I even bought a few wedding gifts during the 25% off sale in the gift department. I'm really pretty well fixed," she concluded, "and my Christmas Club will be so much graver." We'll miss her at Christmas—but even so, we think she's wonderful and wise... Wonder if you've noticed that new shipment of ware from Israel in our center aisle? The color is a variation of our earlier Israel imports, and very lovely. I notice that one small dish has a cluster of brass grapes in the center. Nevertheless, I'm resisting!

One of the column's friends called yesterday to say, "So you're a fan for grape designs! Well, I'm a grape nut too." For goodness' sake! Anyway, thanks for the call, Mrs. G. It's always interesting to hear of others who share the same hobbies... Edna Brockman was having herself a time in the stationery department yesterday, trying to decide whether or not she needed a small notebook to take on that European jaunt. "The trouble is," Edna said, "I want one much larger so there's room to write, but still tiny enough to fit in an ordinary purse. Guess they just don't make them." She's in much the same situation as the fellow who wants a stack of money large enough to make him a millionaire, but small enough to miss being taxed... Our Wyckoff excursionists will soon be on their way, you know. The boat sails March 31st and if my boat had come in, I'd have been sailing too. Wouldn't you? ... Something new in a TV lamp is the Helmsman creation now on display in our gift department. It's actually a heavy parchment garden scene, oval in shape, fitted into a white plastic frame which conceals the electric bulb. It's a picture and a light all in one, at $10.50, and is different enough to require a little 'getting used to'...

Something you'll love at a glance, however, are the three-inch square tiles from Denmark, packaged six to a box at $2.98. These have felt bases, making them ideal coasters for water or refreshment glasses, but I particularly fancy them as hearth decorations, set right into a fireplace. The background is white and there are two styles: one with farm figures in quaint, delicately colored costumes; the other, floral. Mix them if you wish, for it's almost impossible to choose between them...

Coming in for today's "Thank You" specials? Surely you wouldn't want to miss any of them. They're the brightest candles on our anniversary cake!

Basketball in Monroe County is bowing out on a solid financial note, as both the Pocono Mountains League and Gold Medal Tournament backers are pleased with the manner in which customers have been paying to see the various clubs in action. The Pocono Mountains League Tournament finalists played before a crowd estimated at 300 people which poured about $30 into the circuit's treasury. Gray's Chevrolet took home all the marbles this season, winning both the regular and post-season championships.

Frank Stull saw only limited service for Stroudsburg Type-writer in the semi-final round of the Gold Medal Tournament reportedly because of illness. Stull, the tallest player in the current tournament, played his scholastic basketball with Wilson Borough High. Garry Wynne and George Voorhes, members of the Bangor High basketball team last season, played for Pen Argyl against The Daily Record in the Oxford Lions Invitation Tournament last night. John Heard, Bangor High court mentor, was also supposed to play with Pen Argyl, but had to pass up the first game because of other commitments.

Anatomink, a member of the Pocono Mountains League, is scheduled to hold its initial baseball practice on Sunday afternoon, at the East Stroudsburg Playground. Charley "Bud" Rotzell, Bangor's gift to professional baseball, has drawn his release from Charleston, S. C., a club that campaigned in the class "A" South Atlantic League last season. It is quite possible that Rotzell may hook on with the Allentown Cardinals, of the class "A" Eastern League, this season. Dr. Frank P. Maguire, commissioner of Pennsylvania Inter-scholastic Athletic Association officials and a member of the National Rules Committee, attended the meeting of the latter in Kansas City over the weekend. Dr. Maguire is a resident of East Stroudsburg.

HARRY WARNER, Redders drove to gain training at Waycross, Ga., this season. The former Pocono High star, now the property of the Jacksonville club, in the South Atlantic League, left for the training camp on Saturday. Mike Cuna, a resident of Dunmore and one of the most popular pitchers to ever hurl for the Stroudsburg Poconos, is currently in training with Winston-Salem, N. C., of the class "B" Carolina League. Mike, a hard working right hander, flew to his new training base. Cuna pitched, mostly in relief, for Peoria, Ill., of the class "B" Three-I League last season.

Floyd "Blink" Holloway, one of the greatest guys in Monroe County athletic circles, is currently a patient at Philadelphia's famed Jefferson Hospital. Holloway recently underwent surgery to repair damage from a badly broken leg and will be a hospital patient in the City of Brotherly Love for two weeks. Holloway, second baseman for the Eagles, suffered the bad break last September, while taking part in the Keystone Amateur Softball Tournament, at Columbia, Pa.

Jerry Dinan and Dave Frawley, members of the Brown-Lynch American Legion Post, Easton, basketball team, are brothers of Dan Dinan and Jim Frawley, former court stars at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. Brown-Lynch easily won over Blairstown in the opening game of the Oxford, N. J. Lions Club Invitation Tournament. Bill Weber and Charley Berger are doing tremendous work in raising funds for the Monroe County Softball League at the present time. The circuit needs added income this season to make night softball possible.

Bangor Little League is currently in the process of building an official Little League Stadium at Bangor Memorial Park. The circuit hopes to have the field complete by the opening of the coming campaign. Al Cervi, colorful coach of the Syracuse entry in the National Basketball Association, may be a member of the faculty at the Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Coaches Association clinic at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College in June. Cervi's Syracuse club appears to be the class of the NBA playoffs at the present time.

Cervi, during a recent conversation with Marty Baldwin, clinic director, rated Bob Cousy, of the Boston Celtics, as the best player in the NBA. The colorful Syracuse coach rates Bob Davies, Rochester, as one of the circuit's standout performers, despite the advanced age of the former Seton Hall star. Davies plays in at least one golf tournament each summer at Shawnee Inn and Country Club. Glen Brook Country Club is looking for one of its most successful seasons in history during the coming summer months.

Dave Harris, one of the stars on the Barrett High school basketball team last season, has decided not to continue his high school education and has departed from the class rooms at Barrett. Nick Gatto, ESSTC basketball star and now playing in the Gold Medal cage tournament, is reportedly almost as good at pinocle as at the hardwood sport.

Poconos Eliminate Nazareth From Playoffs, 93-64

Earn Right To Oppose Weston Club

Stroudsburg's Poconos coasted to a 93-64 victory over Nazareth last night and earned the right to enter the championship playoff series in the Blue Mountain Basketball League at Stroudsburg High school.

The Poconos sent Nazareth, the number four club in the final standings, spinning from the post-season playoffs in two straight games. Weston, regular season title holder and Stroudsburg's foe in the final playoff series, also eliminated third place Hackettstown in two straight contests.

No dates have been set for the final playoff series, although it is expected to take place next week. The Poconos were never in danger last night, as the small crowd in attendance watched the home contingent dominate three of the four quarters and easily pile up a commanding advantage.

Early Advantage

Stroudsburg jumped off to a 25-11 lead at the end of the first period and into a huge 51-25 advantage at halftime. The Poconos dominated the second quarter, 26-14.

Nazareth played its best basketball of the game in the third quarter and held an 18-15 upper hand. But, the determined Poconos came back to stretch their final margin to 29 points with a 27-21 edge during the final 10 minutes of action.

Every member of the Stroudsburg club broke into the scoring column, with Jim Frailey and Al Adelmann leading the way with 21 and 20 tallies respectively. Tom Bursing and Jerry Magnuson, with 14 and 13 markers respectively, paced the Nazareth offense.

Local Dogs Win At Shows

Monroe County entries went to the head of the class in two week-end dog shows, one in Harrisburg and the other in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Constance Hubbard, owner of Astolat Kennels, Effort, won first place in the American Bred female Shetland Sheep Dog class at the Harrisburg Kennel club show on Saturday, with Astolat Emblem of Hope. Ann Dudiewicz, owner of Cloud Crest Kennels, Mt. Pocono, placed second in the American Bred class for Shelties, with Cloud Crest Color Guard.

Cloud Crest Prince Charming won first place in the American Bred class for male Collies in the same show.

Mrs. Earl Manhart, director of Sugar Brook Kennel, Mountainhome, won reserve honors in the female Cocker Spaniel class at Harrisburg with Sugar Brook Dream.

Mrs. Masie Hoffman, Saylorsburg, won first place in the Cocker Spaniel puppy class with Hoffman's Success.

Washington

Mrs. Dudiewicz won a handful of honors at the Washington Kennel Club show on Sunday, as Cloud Crest Color Guard won first in Shetland Sheep Dog bred by exhibitor, then went on to winners, best of winners and best of opposite sex.

Cloud Crest Prince Charming was second in the American Bred class for Collies.

Mrs. Claire Specht's Jonaire Pocono Bright Idea, from Jonaire Kennels, Mt. Pocono, placed in the open competition for Miniature Schnauzers, while Sugar Brook Kennels captured a best of winners for Cocker Spaniels with Sugar Brook Kingsway, while Sugar Brook Dream won reserve laurels once again.

Mrs. Hubbard judged Collies and Shelties in the Washington Show.

Giants Triumph Over Cubs, 5-0

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—Righthander Larry Jansen and southpaw Johnny Antonelli combined to pitch the New York Giants to a 5-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs yesterday in a game called by rain after five and one-half innings.

Hurlers

Warren Hacker worked the first four innings for the Cubs and gave up all the Giant runs.

Paul Minter followed Hacker to the hill for Chicago.

Indians Need Clutch Performances By High Ranking Stars To Become Serious Flag Threat

Editor's Note—This is the second in a series of training camp articles that will appear from time to time before the opening of the regular major league season pennant race.

Tucson, Ariz. (AP)—Outstanding stars grace the roster of the Cleveland baseball club, and it will require their continued brilliance, plus come-through performances by fellow teammates if the Indians are to threaten as title challengers in the American League this year.

Individually, you can lead off with third baseman Al Rosen, voted the most valuable player in the league last year.

Collectively, there is the so-called "big four," although the number quite possibly is a little exaggerated with the passing of time. The four, however, are the pitching aces, Bob Lemon (21-15), big Mike Garcia (18-9), Early Wynn (17-12) and Bob Feller (10-7).

When spring training opened,

Lopez said that only about four players, excluding pitchers, were reasonably sure of their jobs.

Listed were Rosen, George Strickland at shortstop, Bobby Avila at second and Larry Doby in centerfield.

The situation doesn't appear to have changed much in the days since.

The Indians still have no less than nine reputable infield candidates and at least seven men of seasoned ability bidding for outfield berths. The groups include the "safe" four.

The pitching department also includes relievers Dave Hoskins and Bob Hooper, and two rookie firemen, Ray Narleski from Indianapolis and Don Fracchia from Beaumont.

Outfield

Also aboard are Art Houtteman, the veteran from the Detroit Tigers; southpaw Dick Toomanek, who came up from Indianapolis last year in time to pitch and beat Detroit with a six-hitter.

Camp followers think Lopez will lead off with Wally Westlake in left, Doby in center and Dave Philley in right, provided the latter can out Dale Mitchell.

Angling for work are Bob Kennedy, Jim Lemon, Harry Simpson, Dave Pope, Gale Wade and Al Smith, the latter two newcomers at Cleveland.

First base offers a scrap between "Rocky" Nelson, who led the International League with Montreal in runs batted in—136, huge Luke Easter and Bill Glynn. Nelson currently is leading.

Sam Dente, who played with Indianapolis last year at third base, is with the Indians, as are "Hank" Majeski, a holdover, and Owen Friend, late of the Tigers and Browns.

Jim Hegan's catching job is being challenged by Mickey Grosso, Joe Ginsberg and Hal Naragon. The latter is back after two years in the Marine Corps.

Johnson Claims Moore's Light Heavy Crown

Philadelphia (AP)—Philadelphia's Harold Johnson yesterday claimed the light heavyweight boxing title and said he would post $2,500 with the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission guaranteeing a summer defense against any capable challenger.

Archie Moore currently is the recognized 175 pound champion, but has consistently refused to meet Johnson since winning the crown from Joey Maxim. Johnson, universally recognized as the number one challenger for the light-heavyweight title, has won his last 12 fights, including victories over Ezzard Charles and Nino Valdes.

Reports

Tommy Loughrey, Johnson's manager, decided to claim the title when he heard reports that Moore was negotiating with Jack Solomons, London promoter, for a title defense in London against Yolande Pompey of Trinidad. The manager believes neither Moore nor his manager, Charley Johnston, have any intention of fighting Johnson. Loughrey figures that Moore is looking toward the heavyweight crown.

Moore was ordered by the National Boxing Association to fight Johnson this past winter, but instead, haunted the NBA and signed for another bout with Maxim, which he won, Johnson was the last man to defeat Moore, winning a 10-round decision over him in December, 1951. Moore won two previous fights with Johnson and beat him again in 1952.

Frank Wiener, chairman of the Pennsylvania commission, said he won't back Johnson's claim to be champion, but will back the Negro to the limit in his demand for a shot at the Moore title.

Buck Hill Course To Open April 15

Buck Hill Falls—The famed 27-hole championship golf course at The Inn here will reopen for the season on Thursday, April 15.

Returning

Ted Beadle, the Inn's golf pro, who spends winters at the Highland Park Club in Florida, will be on hand again.

Pocono Manor Entry Tied For Fifth Place In Seminole Golf

Palm Beach, Fla. (AP)—Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., missed the competitive course record by one stroke yesterday as he fired a 35-30—65 to take the first-round lead in the two-day, $10,000 Pro-amateur tournament at the Seminole Golf Club.

Dodgers Cut 13 Players From Squad

West Palm Beach, Fla. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers cut 13 players from their squad yesterday as they prepared to head north via the Florida west coast. Eight were returned to minor clubs while five were left to work out at Vero Beach pending further reductions in the squad.

Pitchers Don Bessent and Ronnie Negray, catcher Ken Staples and outfielders Ted Bartz and Walter Moryn were optioned to St. Paul. Pitcher Karl Spooner was returned to St. Paul.

Options

Pitcher Glenn Mickens was optioned to Fort Worth and pitcher Bob Darnell was returned to that club.

Outfielder Bill Antonello, infielder Jim Baxes and pitchers Jim Hughes, Ray Moore and "Hamp" Coleman were assigned to Vero Beach, Hughes, who has been ill, probably will rejoin the club next week. The status of the others is indefinite.

Pittsburgh First Baseman Injured

Fort Pierce, Fla. (AP)—First baseman Paul Smith of the Pittsburgh Pirates nursed a painful neck yesterday after being hit by a ball in practice.

Hit Hard

Pitcher Bob Hall threw hard in an attempt to nail Smith who was on first during a base-running drill and the ball hit Smith, virtually knocking him unconscious. He'll be out of action for several days.

Brewed to the American taste . . . to the American figure

Ballantine Beer watches your belt-line

...with fewer calories than any other leading beer

It's good news that all of the leading beers today are lower in calories than they used to be . . . that all are starch-free and none has more than a negligible trace of sugar.

Particularly good news—if you're counting up your calorie quota—that independent laboratory tests show Ballantine has fewer calories than any other leading beer.

Ballantine, you know, not only watches your belt-line. Ballantine Beer is brewed to the American taste and to the American figure.

Ballantine Beer is the product of 114 years of brewing experience. Brewed from nature's finest barley malt and hops, it has the same full flavor and fine character that have made it one of America's largest selling beers.

Next time, ask the man for Ballantine Beer—the low-calorie beer with the flavor that chill can't kill!

"m-m-m, the wonderful flavor that chill can't kill!"

Nardico, Norkus Set To Renew Bloody Ring Feud Tonight

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP)—Danny Nardico and Charley Norkus, the sluggers who staged one of the bloodiest battles in years January 20, were reported in fine shape yesterday for tonight's return bout.

There were eight knockdowns in the January brawl, with underdog Norkus, a 24-year-old unranked

Red Sox Blank Redlegs, 2-0

Sarasota, Fla. (AP)—Righthander Willard Nixon pitched and batted the Boston Red Sox to their fifth straight victory yesterday, with the Cincinnati Reds the 2-0 victims.

Rookie Shines
Nixon gave up only two hits in his six innings and drove a double to left field to chalk up the first run of the game.

Rookie Tom Brewer, taking over for the last three innings, ran his string of scoreless innings to 17 in Grapefruit League competition.

Raschi Stars As Cardinals Nip Braves

St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP)—Ex-Yankee star Vic Raschi hurled six scoreless innings, his best performance of the spring exhibition series, to start the St. Louis Cardinals toward a 6-5 victory over the Milwaukee Braves yesterday.

No Walks
The righthanded Raschi allowed five hits—all singles—and didn't walk a batter. He also struck out six.

Righthander Bob Buhl of Milwaukee, who had given up just one run in 15 previous innings, was touched for three runs in the first frame of yesterday's game on two walks and four singles.

No Draw Order
New Orleans (AP)—The Louisiana State Athletic Commission yesterday announced that no preliminary or main event fights will be permitted to end in a draw.

Man Worried

Constantly About Liars

Washington 49 — Ever since man has been on this earth he has worried about liars and how to detect them.

So the present argument between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Army officials—whether McCarthy's suggestion that all witnesses, including himself, submit to a lie detector presents a problem as old as mankind itself.

Guillaume DuPrat, a French criminologist, said:

"There is scarcely a deed more commonplace than the lie. Children lie; hysterics lie; and likewise do persons deemed most honorable."

Man's earliest literature is aware of lying.

In the Iliad the gods not only lie to men but also to each other.

The Bible tells of many liars, some of whom are otherwise quite respectable. Such as Rebekah, who induced Jacob to lie and thereby defraud Esau.

Solomon's lie-detection scheme, with two women claiming the same child, would be hard to beat. He tightly reasoned that the true mother would rather deny her claim than have the child killed.

Tibet had a quaint custom. Two stones, one white and one black, were put in a pot of boiling water. The two disputants plunged their arms in, and the one who got the white stone was judged the honest man. The test had this merit: It discouraged lawsuits.

John A. Larson, who recounted many of these ancient customs in his book, "Lying and Its Detection," also mentioned a medieval legal method for determining the truth. If two persons were suspected, the uglier or more deformed was regarded as the more likely to be guilty.

Larson, W. M. Marston and Leonardo E. Keeler were among the pioneers in developing the modern lie detector.

Actually, it's no lie detector at all but a combination of machines to measure a person's emotional reactions while he answers questions.

In effect, it tries to measure scientifically what we all are familiar with: The flush, the change in breathing, the faster pulse, the tightened muscle.

But Paul V. Trevillo in the "Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology" says: "Lie detectors are not infallible." And in the same journal, John E. Reid says a fifth of all tests are so inconclusive as to be meaningless.

On this, though, all experts can agree: It beats diving for a white stone in boiling water.

Shawnee Cub Scouts Get Official Review From District Commissioner

A charter review for Cub Pack 80, which is sponsored by the Shawnee Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward George this week.

Victor Hoehne, district commissioner, and Dr. Francis B. McGarry, chairman of the Organization and Extension Committee reviewed the progress of the pack and the plans for the coming year.

During 1953 the pack took a trip to West Point and was active in a number of community projects including paper drives, family picnics and camping trips.

Plans for coming activities include a trip to visit the display of the Sportsmen's Association in East Stroudsburg on April 3, a trip to the Naval Academy at Annapolis in May, a conservation project and a civil defense project. At the present time the pack is conducting a candy sale to raise money for the trip to the Naval Academy.

Members attending the meeting included: Rev. David C. Newquist, Cubmaster; Omar Michaels, institutional representative; Arthur Mosteller, chairman of Pack committee and these committeemen, Ross Fuller, William Nelson, Edward George, Elwood Walter, Robert Reeves, Richard Lee, Russell Scott.

James F. Staples, assistant Cubmaster; Mrs. Eleanor E. George, Denmother; Mrs. Esther C. Scott, Denmother.

The denchiefs for the pack include: Michael Heller, James Park.

Sunday School Awards Given At Cherry Lane

Cherry Lane Attendance awards were presented during the Sunday School session at the Methodist Church here.

Mrs. Helen Shaffer, superintendent, awarded bars for four years attendance to Roberta Bush, Alberta Getz, Ellanore Sebring, Janet Shaffer, Nancy Shaffer, Evelyn Kane, Thelma Kane and Glenn Kane.

Wreaths for two years attendance went to Mary Ann Smith, Harriet Smith, Carolyn Andress, Gary Smith, David Sebring, Judy, Ronnie and Billy Horst. One-year pin was awarded Bruce Bush, and for six months to Laurel Blythe, Stanley and Laurel Bush.

Mrs. Shaffer announced the formation of a new class, the "I Am His" club. Purpose, she said, is to promote Christian fellowship among the youth. Youths over 12 are eligible. Listed as members are Evelyn and Thelma Kane, Janet and Nancy Shaffer, Ellanore Sebring, Alberta Getz, Harriet Smith and Roberta Bush.

Rev. Ralph H. Feltham, pastor, delivered the sermon "Christ Before Pilate." Hymns were sung by the choir, directed by Mrs. Shaffer with Mrs. Stanley Hartman as pianist.

Rev. Feltham announced a dawn service will occur Easter Sunday at Mt. Zion with the choir singing. Service will begin at 6:15 a.m. He also reported communion service in the local church Tuesday night, April 13, and preaching service here Easter Sunday night.

A meeting of the official board will be held in the church Friday night, April 23.

Mrs. Helen Randel Kistler, a guest, presented families present with a copy of her book of poems, "Silver Path To God." Also a guest at the service was Mrs. Edgar Hartman, mother-in-law of Mrs. Stanley Hartman.

Dr. O. M. Shlanta, 600 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, will be away from the office Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 26, 27 and 28. Adv.

Evangelist At Pilgrim Holiness

"The Heavenly Race" will be the sermon theme at the revival service tonight at 7:30 in the Pilgrim Holiness Church, 208 Main Street. Rev. Eldon Rotz, evangelist from Berryburg, Pa., will deliver the message. He will base his message on Hebrews 12:1.

Rev. Rotz spoke on the theme, "The Image of God" taking his text from Colossians 3:10 last night. Rev. Rotz pointed out that God recognized two federal heads—the first Adam and the second Adam which is Christ.

In the first Adam, all must die; but in the second Adam, Christ, all can be made alive. Therefore, if any man be in Christ he is a new creature; old things have passed away, behold all things have become new.

Each night through March 28, Rev. Rotz will deliver a Biblical, heart-stirring message. His wife will render solo selections in song at each service.

Mennonites Continue Revival

Revival services which are being held in the Berean Mennonite Brethren in Christ Church will continue throughout the week each night at 7:30, except Saturday night.

Tonight the evangelist, Rev. James Hartman, of Allentown, will bring with him the chorus from Berean Bible School which is under the direction of Mrs. Janses Hartman. This is a service you will not want to miss. Come and bring some with you.
